little boy had his face, chest and arms burned at Manatawny park the night of July 4 when some irresponsible birdhead threw a firecracker near him.

A number of years ago Pennsylvania outlawed the sale of firecrackers. But there are still places where you can buy these finger-removers, and there are plenty of people goofy enough to use them.

If a person were found throwing loaded bullets around the streets he would be considered insane, a menace to the community. Yet, a fellow can toss exploding hunks of gunpowder in people's faces on sidewalks and on private property, and because it's the Fourth of July he gets away with it.

Why don't borough authorities crack down on all this simpleness?

A person can lose a hand or leg, and possibly be killed because some foolish idiot is playing with gunpowder.

When you come down to it, we've really degenerated in the past years. We celebrate one of our most cherished national holidays by blowing each others brains out with gunpowder, by slaughtering hundreds on highways in traffic accidents and by getting polluted in public bags.

I think council should ban fireworks for good, except by those who are licensed to handle them. Someone is going to loose a finger, a leg or even a head.

Pottstown POWDER STAINED

Calls for Red Light

To the Editor: This letter is to suggest that people in New Hanover and close by get busy and ask the State to put up a traffic light at the intersection of Route 663 and Swamp pike.

There have not been many bad accidents there just recently, but there have been a large number in the last few years. Both streets are narrow, smooth main streets on which people go at terrific clips.

People crawling away from the Stop signs on either side of Route 663 are taking their lives in their hands every time they cross Swamp pike, which has cars shooting around blind curves close to each side of the corner.

Let's not wait until people are killed there to do something.

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CHLOE, Z., 55, is supposed to be psychic.

"She can tell what you are thinking about, for she has the power of mental telepathy." I overheard a stenographer telling her girl friend, as I rode home on the train last night.

"She charges you $2.00 to tell the future, but she is really marvelous.

"I get a creepy feeling when I am around her, for it frightens me to be near a person who is clairvoyant.

"But she told me things I never would have believed anybody else knew. So you ought to go see her, too."

PSYCHOLOGISTS are often queried regarding the supposedly super natural abilities of various people.

First, don't talk about "mental telepathy," for the word "mental" is superfluous.

"Telepathy" means "mental transference," so when people say "mental telepathy" they are redundant, and actually say "mental mental transference."

Secondly, nobody on this earth can read your mind or demonstrate telepathy, except in the following type of limited situation.

Suppose you and some friend have just witnessed a movie comedy in which a horse looks around and sees a street cleaner bent over behind him. The horse then kicks the later on the seat of his pants.

Now shift the scene. Imagine yourself and that same friend walking along the street. You happen to see a real street cleaner bent over behind a real horse.

I'll bet I can guess what you're thinking about" your friend may suddenly exclaim.

And he doubtless can, for you have both seen the recent comedy about the horse and the street cleaner. A similar set of environmental stimuli thus recalls the same previous incident.

That is the only type of telepathy that is admitted by psychologists. In short, mind reading or clairvoyance does not exist in the sense in which this young stenographer was talking today.

"Then how do you account for her telling the girls about events which she thought nobody else knew?"

Easy! Many patients inform me that I have told them about events in their childhood of a sexual nature that they had tried to hide for years.

How did I do it? Simply by logical deduction. When there is a definite causal relationship between facts and you have the second of that series, it isn't an evidence of telepathy to deduce the first!

Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, July 11 — Aldo Ray, Columbia's new comet, has been told to stay out of night clubs and "the columns" so far as having his name linked with any gal is concerned. Ray is in the divorce mill. So is Tony Dexter, who parted from his frau at the time he was picked to star in "Valentine"; reconciled with her later to no avail. Amazing isn't it (particularly among the younger ones who suddenly get big breaks) that one touch of fame seems to tarnish their personal lives? . . . Creator of the world-famous Charlot Revues, he only brought such as Noel Coward, Gertrude Lawrence, Jack Buchanan, Bee Lillie and other stars to the fore—long ago. It was a 17-inch-long, 5-year-old alligator. The alligator (it's a she) is alive and growing, although it is so quiet it led most people to think it was stuffed. Eventually, the alligator will be six feet long. Before then, the 10-year-old said, it will be sent to a zoo.

YOUR HEALTH

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

WHEN THE liver becomes covered with fat, or fat develops between the liver cells, this vital organ cannot work as it should.

The liver is one of the most important organs in the human body. It is thought by some to have over a hundred different purposes. It is important for the body's use of the fats, carbohydrates and proteins contained in our food. It also plays a part in manufacturing vital blood factors, hormones, and enzymes.

The liver's ability to work correctly can be measured by liver function tests. These tests are usually impaired when a person has a fatty liver.

There are various causes of a fatty liver. It may easily come from a diet that does not supply enough of certain vitamins, mainly those known as choline and inositol. An under-supply of certain hormones by the endocrine glands may also produce a fatty liver. A good example of this is a lack of insulin in the body; another is a deficiency of the pituitary gland, and a "lack" of complete proteins.

Over-stout persons and those with diabetes have a tendency toward fatty livers. When this condition results from excess weight, however, it is not helped by taking the vitamins mentioned above. Only a reducing diet seems to be effective.

One of the common causes of fat in the liver is the use of too much alcoholic liquor, which sometimes causes severe fatty changes. These can be corrected readily if the patient is made to rest in bed and fed a high protein diet, which also contains a large amount of carbohydrates. Of course, alcohol must be stopped.

In severe alcohol intoxication, the alcohol may act as a poison on the liver and kill a great number of liver cells.

Recently, it has been found that people who chronically imbibe alcohol and have fatty degeneration of the liver have a tendency to carry a virus causing severe liver infection. Therefore, most blood banks are now careful not to accept a person with a fatty liver as a blood donor.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

M. K.: I have spots before my left eye. Could you tell me the cause of this? I am wearing glasses, but they do not seem to help.

Answer: Spots before the eyes are a symptom that appears in several diseases. It may be due to constipation, to a defect in the vision, to anemia, to high blood pressure, or to migraine.

A thorough examination is necessary before the exact cause can be determined; then proper treatment can be suggested.

Drowned Boy Not Yet Found In Perkiomen

The body of 13-year-old Richard Endie, who drowned Wednesday in the Perkiomen creek at Oaks, was still not recovered late last night.

Companions of Endie from the Philadelphia Protectory for Boys have been constantly watching the banks of the Perkiomen in case his body is washed ashore from the rain-swollen waters.

Officers of the Valley Forge Park commission have been told to keep a watchful eye on the shoreline for the drowned boy.

All organized searches and night watches have been abandoned because of the hazards created by the Perkiomen which is several feet higher than normal due to the heavy rain.

THE PERKIOMEN has flowed over its banks in the past two days and it is felt that when it recedes Endie's body may be left ashore in the brush lining the creek.

This morning Lower Providence Police Chief David J. Burns and Valley Forge Park Guard Sgt. Charles E. Dickens will search the lower Perkiomen and the Schuylkill river for the body of Endie.

They expect to go down the Schuylkill as far as Norristown if the water is high enough.

Chief Burns said that the little island's on the way down to Norristown will be searched thoroughly. He said there is a possibility that the body may lodge there if the water level goes down.

Chief Burns added that he thought the body would be found somewhere in the Schuylkill because of the swift current created by the high water.

Huge Rubber Supply Lost in W. Va. Fire

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., July 11 (AP)—Damage in a still smouldering warehouse fire was estimated today at from 10 million dollars to a staggering 50 million.

An exact accounting of the destruction in what was probably the worst fire in the history of West Virginia may never be made public since the Government, for security reasons, won't say how much crude rubber it lost.

The rubber supply was one of the major items burned in the sprawling warehouse facilities of the General Storage company.

A Defense department representative at the scene of the blaze said 30 million dollars would be a "safe and conservative" estimate. He refused to be named.

GOP HARMONY—

general was in his headquarters at the Blackstone hotel; Taft was just across the street in the Conrad Hilton.

Eisenhower slipped down a back elevator and crossed the street. He and Taft conferred together privately for a few minutes in Taft's office and then appeared together for television cameras. Both were smiling broadly, but Taft's chagrin at losing the nomination was evident.

THE JAM-PACKED room was in an uproar, but Taft was heard at one point to tell the man who beat him for the big GOP prize: "You'll win the election."

Taft held up an arm and pleaded for quiet. Finally the hub-bub subsided and Taft said:

"I want to congratulate Gen. Eisenhower on his nomination and assure him I will do everything possible for him in his campaign and after he wins the election."

Eisenhower said he had come "to pay a call of friendship on a very great American." He thanked Taft for his promise of co-operation, and then hurried back to the Blackstone.

There he greeted his headquarters staff, posed again for cameras. And said "I have no statement to make."

THEN, "HELLO, folks," he added, and finally his voice came strongly through the hub-bub:

"I have just completed a call on Sen. Taft. I extended an invitation to co-operate with me from now on and he agreed to do so in a very warm-hearted fashion which pleased me very greatly."

Newsmen shouted requests for a news conference, but they were told there would be none today. A notice was posted saying the best guess was that "Ike will not leave the Blackstone before 8 p. m. (Pottstown time)."

Arrangements were being made for him to accept the nomination before the 1206 delegates in the convention hall.

In Eisenhower headquarters, near-bedlam broke loose when the nomination came to him.

Staff workers shouted and cheered and clapped one another on the back.

OUTSIDE, TOO, there was a noisy demonstration.

Within minutes after Eisenhower's nomination was assured, a crowd gathered in the street outside the entrance of the Blackstone hotel. Supporters, ecitedly grinning and shoving, milled about in the street, barring motor traffic from passing. Police hustled about trying to keep the crowd on the sidewalks.

On the mezzanine floor, another crowd was waiting—mostly newsmen, photographers, television and newsreel cameramen, but in part made up of the curious who were able to get through the throng outside into the hotel. A small boy perched on his father's shoulder hoping for a look at Eisenhower—because the word had gone out that Ike would appear in the ballroom to meet the press and well-wishers. That was changed when the meeting with Taft was arranged.

OPS Announces Cut In Employes by Sept.

WASHINGTON, July 11 (AP)—Price Chief Ellis Arnall said tonight the Office of Price Stabilization will cut off about 6150 of its 12,000 employes by Sept. 1 due to slashes by Congress in the Agency's operating funds.

Arnall said about 700 of the 2500 employees in national headquarters in Washington will be dismissed. The staff in the field offices will be cut from 9500 to 5450.

"Even though this slash in our staff will be a big handicap," he said, "we don't intend to go into a willy-nilly rush of lifting price ceilings. We still intend to carry on the very best price control program we can."

Comeback Story of the Year

Hit by a line drive in the face during Spring training, Bobby Slabaugh 21 year old righthander of the St Louis Cards, lost an eye and his career was believed ended But Bobby wouldn't quit the game He was farmed to Omaha in the Western league and in his first start of the year recently he pitched a four hitter and won, 10

Tigers Blasted Twice by Bosox

BOSTON, July 11 (AP) —The Boston Red Sox made new Detroit manager Freddy Hutchinson's first taste of defeat doubly bitter today by sweeping a double header from the last place Tigers by 16-6 and 5-3 margins

The Red Sox set off a 15 hit attack that included four homers in the opener and then were given a four hit pitching performance by Lefty Mel Parnell in the nightcap

Vern Stephens drove in a total of four runs with two first game homers and ex Tiger Hoot Evers belted a grand slammer as rookie pitcher Dick Brodowski helped himself by hitting for the circuit

The pitching victim of the second most one sided drubbing the hapless Tigers have suffered this season was Ted Gray, who was replaced by Marlin Stuart in the sixth The Tiger worst licking was 11 0 by the Indians on July 4

Billy Goodman and catcher Del Wilber each connected safely four times, the former driving in three runs against Virgil Trucks and Hal White in the afterpiece Goodman's total for the day was six hits out of nine tries slugging that boosted his average to a handsome 348

Parnell had six strikeouts and gave up but one base on balls while chalking up his sixth win against five defeats As a result only two of the Tigers found themselves stranded on base

Rosen and Doby Homer in Ninth For Tribe Win

PHILADELPHIA, July 11 (AP) — Ninth inning homers by Al Rosen and Larry Doby the latter an inside the park smash, gave the Cleveland Indians an 8 7 triumph over the Philadelphia Athletics tonight The A's Ferris Fain extended his hitting streak to 23 consecutive games

The winner was reliefer Mike Garcia who worked only two innings, Garcia has won 12 lost 6 He was the third Cleveland pitcher following starter Bob Feller—victim of a seven run A's rally in the sixth—and Lou Brissie

Carl Scheib also doing relief chores, was the loser, his third against four wins He took over in the first frame after starter Harry Byrd got himself into trouble

Rosen opened the decisive ninth by walloping his 16th homer onto the roof of Shibe Park in left center Then Doby ended the enjoyment of 8 767 partisan fans with a drive that soared over center fielder Dave Philley's head and The speedy Doby beat the relay

Ransom, Snead Shoots 68's; Lead at St. Paul

ST PAUL, Minn, July 11 (AP) — A couple of old hands — Henry Ransom and Sam Snead—shot six-under par 66s today to stand one two at the halfway mark in the $15 000 St Paul Open golf tournament

Ransom's 36 hole score was 139 —14 under par Snead was two strokes back with 132 having duplicated his opening day count

Ransom went out in 32 and came back in 34 over the par 36 36 Keller layout Snead shot a five under par 32 on the out nine but could shave only one stroke off regulation figures coming in Ransom beat par on seven holes and went over par once Snead bettered par on five holes—but two strokes on the first hole—and also went over once

Bobby Locke Edges Daly in British Open

ST ANNE S-ON SEA England July 11 (AP)—Stern faced Bobby Locke, who treats his golf like a problem of mechanics worked his way through pelting rain and blustering winds today to capture the British Open championship by a single stroke

It was a story book finish for the South African who had captured this event born in 1949 and 1950 Locke went into today's final round of 36 holes trailing the leader Irishman Fred Daly, by four strokes, But Daly blew under pressure and had to be content with third as 22 year-old Peter Thomson of Australia carded 288 to Daly's 289

Four Americans who were no fashionable 6647 yard Royal Lytham and St Anne's course for among the 46 finalists after the week long series of eliminations finished deep down in the list The best showing was turned in by Willie Goggin of Montclair N J He had a 295 to finish in a six way tie for ninth place

Gene Sarazen of Germantown, N Y, who won this title 20 years ago got an even 300, along with the defending champion, Britain's Max Faulkner

At 302 was Jimmy Hines of Chicago while Frank Stranahan of Toledo, Ohio, one of six amateurs in the final rounds, shot a 309

Daly held the lead most of the two days but Locke finally got to him and took the lead after the first nine on the afternoon round

A half gale and heavy showers swept in from the sea, and a wild crowd of spectors swarmed over

Tommy Byrne Wins First In 2 Months; Tilts Yanks

NEW YORK July 11 (AP) —Left hander Tommy Byrne won his first game in two months today when he put his former New York Yankee mates down with seven hits as the St Louis Browns won 6-3 The victory cracked a nine game losing streak for the Browns

Byrne fanned five and walked only three The only earned run he permitted was Joe Collins' sixth homer in the eighth inning The Yanks were handed unearned tallies in the third due to a passed ball by catcher Clint Courtne and in the seventh when Cass Michaels erred

Bill Miller rookie lefthander opposed Byrne at the outset but had to quit after the fourth when Dick Kryhoski crashed a liner off his left shin

Joe Ostrowski took over and was hammered to his first defeat of the year when the Brownies erupted for four runs in the seventh

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Runaway Heifer Returns Home After 2 Weeks

Fawn came home last night.

After two weeks and about seven hours of searching for greener pastures, the 6-months-old heifer must have decided "there's no place like home" and returned to the farm of her owner, Allan R. Lysinger, Perkiomenville RD .

With the 2-foot of chain she carried when she jumped a fence and disappeared into nearby woods at 1 p. m. June 27 still around her neck, the once grey, now white, heifer reappeared at the farm at 8 o'clock last night.

Mrs. Lysinger said she spotted the heifer at the edge of the Lysinger pasture near the same woods, about 300 yards from the barn, while calling in the cows.

"AT FIRST I thought it was a neighbor's bull," she said, "then when I got closer I realized it was Fawn."

She summoned her husband, who was cultivating corn nearby, and, after some coaxing, Fawn permitted herself to be led to the barn where Lysinger secured her to a stall both with a chain and rope.

The animal, Mrs. Lysinger said, lost "about 75 to 100 pounds" during her wandering. She believes the sun bleached the animal's grey hide white.

HAT SHOW —

nial queen on a float and a bright antique car.

The hat worn by Bonnie Hunter, from Franklin playground, was judged the most beautiful.

IT WAS a flat hat covered with white cotton resembling snow and had several miniature pine trees surrounding a choir boy for a Christmas motif.

Billy Souders, from Hillcrest playground, managed to string up a clothesline on his head and hang clothes on it with clothespins and took the first prize for the most comical hat.

Caryl Neiman, from Hillcrest playground, was unanimously chosen the winner of the award for the tallest hat when she entered one with a tiger lily on a stem several feet long attached to the hat.

Eugene Shawell, from Jefferson playground, used red, white and blue gimp and two yellow buttons to construct the tiniest hat entered.

The gimp was tied around his chin and up to the top of his head where the buttons were fastened and the gimp was slightly curled.

OTHER WINNERS from Manatawny park playground were Galen Fritz, Sandra Pollock, Harold Hahn and Dennis Pollock.

Barbara Houck, from Lincoln playground, won an award and so did Barbara Evens from Rupert playground and Philip Welsh from Franklin playground.

Happy Hill had three winners: Barbara Sims, Arlene Caulk and Randolph Caulk.

Mrs. Claude Clements and Mrs. A. E. Willauer of the Pottstown Soroptomist club were the judges of the event.

Registration at playgrounds in Pottstown continues to mount after three weeks of operation. A total of 1442 are now enrolled at the nine play areas.

FOR THE past week it is estimated that total attendance reached more than 4900.

The highest registration is at Manatawny park playground with 309 boys and girls enrolled.

Franklin has 227, Happy Hill has 77, Hillcrest has 84 and Jefferson has 173.

At Lincoln, there are 111 boys and girls registered, at Rupert there are 208, at St. Clair there are 133 and at Tot Lot there are 120.

THERE WILL be 17 prize categories for the winners who catch the most fish, the biggest and the most unusual.

Complete fishing outfits will be given to the boy and girl catching the heaviest fish by the Better Fishing organization.

Other prizes will be donated by local merchants, ranging from artificial bait to rod and reel sets.

Burgess William A. Griffith, honorary chairman of the event, will preside over the affair.

The Pottstown Junior Chamber of Commerce will assist in supervising and judging the annual contest.

Diecaster Suffers Serious Hand Injury

A 40-year-old diecaster at Doehler-Jarvis corporation's plant suffered a serious hand injury at work yesterday.

John Dykie, Perkiomenville, was admitted to Pottstown hospital at 3 o'clock with extensive burns of the left hand, which also had been nearly smashed. After first-aid treatment, he was taken to the operating room.

Dykie reported to hospital authorities that he had dropped a hot casting on the hand.

He was taken to the hospital in a Good Will ambulance driven by Edward Seeders.

JUDGE FORREST —

termed him a parole violator as a result of his arrest on the charge to which he pleaded guilty.

"I WILL defer sentence to see what White Hill wants to do with him," said Judge Forrest. "If they say they want him back, that's all there will be to it here."

Assistant District Attorney Alfred L. Taxis Jr., representing the Commonwealth, and Attorney Horace Davenport, representing Shawll, will contact the White Hill authorities and report back to the court.

In the meantime, Shawll, whose home is located on Road B, Hilldale, will remain in the county prison where he has been since his arrest on the night of Saturday, June 21, by Pottstown Patrolmain William Mars.

Mars testified he was in a patrol car on West High street, above Manatawny street, when he saw a car speeding west. He directed the vehicle to stop but the operator drove into Penn Village, turned around and then drove back toward Pottstown.

Mars kept in close pursuit. He had the siren sounding and the police lights flashing.

HE SAID that as he attempted to pull up alongside of the car in order to force it over to the curb, the driver would deliberately steer the vehicle toward the patrol car. He said this happened at least five times during the chase.

The fleeing car turned North on Manatawny street and its lights went off, said Mars. At Third street the lights were turned on as the car steered onto Third and continued to Hanover street. Again the lights went off.

The car went down Hanover to Beech and East on Beech to Franklin where the operator jammed on the brakes and fled on foot.

The entire chase lasted about a half hour, Mars told Judge Forrest.

HE SAID shortly after it had ended, a telephone call was received at the police station with the caller reporting the car which had been in the chase as having been stolen.

The caller was told to report to the hall with owner's cards and other information. The owner and two companions, one of them Shawll, went to the hall. Later Shawll admitted he had been driving.

Shawll told Judge Forrest he had been released from White Hill on parole the past March. He said one of the terms of his parole is that he must not drive an automobile. Because of this he said, he became scared when he saw the officer signal to him to stop.

He said he spent several years at Glen Mills and in 1948 was committed to White Hill after being involved in a service station robbery in Berks County. He said he has been unable to get a job because of his institution record.

YOHN'S HAPPY —

give up for the second or third ballot," Yohn remarked, "but I always felt sure Ike would make it."

YOHN DIDN'T hesitate to predict the results of the November election.

"Without a doubt, Ike will be elected," he stated. "I firmly believe his nomination will be more towards unifying the factions of the Republican party than anything else."

Yohn added he "was pleased to hear Taft say he was going to come out and help the campaign for all he's worth. 'Ike's going to put on a great fight.'"

Yohn said he didn't know if Eisenhower would visit Pottstown, "but I'm sure he'll get awfully close to us. Pennsylvania played a vital part in his nomination, and it is an important election State."

Eisenhower's main attractions for voters, Yohn feels, is his knowledge of Europe and foreign policy. Disclaiming charges that Ike helped construct Democratic overseas policies during and after World War II, Yohn said: "He had to take orders then, because he was in uniform. He'll do his own thinking from now on."

YOHN SAID the nomination of Senator Richard Nixon, of California, was "a fine choice. He is an excellent speaker and a great fighter."

Yohn concluded. "The Republicans are going to win a tremendous victory this year regardless of who the Democrats nominate."

Federal Negotiator Takes Part in Talks With Union, Company

Federal Commissioner Samuel Spencer, Philadelphia, made no decision yesterday after hearing company and union officials report on stalemated wage negotiations for the clerical unit of Spicer Amalgamated Local 644, United Steelworkers (CIO).

Spencer announced after morning and afternoon sessions in the YMCA he was not in a position to make recommendations "at this time" without further study.

The Philadelphia representative of the Federal office of mediation and conciliation set July 16 as the next meeting in the YMCA. Company and union officials will attend the session.

Spencer was called into the picture when negotiations, which began this past October, bogged down.

YESTERDAY'S session ran from 10 a. m. through 3.30 p. m. He heard both sides of the dispute and was given a thorough history on the dispute.

Negotiations affect 85 clerical employes of the Spicer manufacturing division of the Dana corporation. Employes voted to enter the union at National Labor Relations Board elections this past Fall.

Representing the union were Edward G. Wilms, international representative; John G. Shaner, business agent for Local 644, and the four-member negotiating committee from the clerical unit.

Present for the company were James Spargos, personnel director, and Richard King, of the personnel department.

IKE-NIXON —

Ohio came to the platform and, speaking for Taft, moved that the nomination be made unanimous.

Sen. William F. Knowland of California came forward to do the same on behalf of Warren.

And the delegates jamming into this big hall roared their approval.

With this dramatic conclusion to the long, tense Eisenhower-Taft struggle, the convention recessed.

The main business last night was to ratify officially Nixon to the No. 2 place on the ticket the GOP will send out in an effort to break 20 years of Democratic national rule. The convention then adjourned.

Taft and Eisenhower both got the news of the convention decision between them by watching TV at their hotels.

IMMEDIATELY, there was a gesture of unity from the general. He went to Taft's hotel and two of them posed smiling, chatting amiably for newsmen, the movies and TV.

"You'll win the election," Taft told the General.

And to a jostling crowd in his headquarters Taft said:

"I want to congratulate Gen. Eisenhower on his nomination and assure him I will do everything possible for him in his campaign and after he wins the election."

Eisenhower spoke of Taft as a "great American" and said he had come to pay a call of friendship.

From this peace meeting Eisenhower went to a conference with Gov. Thomas E. Dewey and other advisers—a session devoted to the question of the vice presidential nomination.

Expert Musicians To Give Lessons at Summer Band Camp

Pottstown area musicians are invited to attend a Summer band camp sponsored by William Lamb Jr., at Ringing Rocks park next week.

The camp will be in session Monday through Sunday, except Saturday, from 6:30 p. m. to 8:30 p. m. All musicians, regardless of age or ability, are invited to improve their playing at the camp free of charge.

Professional musicians from New York, Philadelphia and Washington, D. C., will give performances and conduct clinics on each instrument.

Guest leaders will include Capt. Hugh Curry, conductor of the U. S. Army band; Mason Jones, first horn player of the Philadelphia Symphony orchestra; Keig Garvin, trombone soloist of the U. S. Army band; Armond Robbins, saxophonist of the U. S. Army band; and Daniel Hinger, percussionist of the Philadelphia Symphony orchestra.

Pres. Truman Signs Bill For Independence Park

WASHINGTON, July 11 (AP) — President Truman today signed a bill to clear the way for enlargement of the Independence National Historical park in Philadelphia.

The legislation increases the original authorization for the park from $4,435,000 to $7,700,000, and permits the government to acquire properties on South Fifth street in that city.

It authorizes the secretary of interior to let the American Philosophical society construct and operate a building in the park to house its library and scientific and historical collections.

in the Pennsylvania delegation backing Eisenhower," said Peters. "His influence was in evidence at all times. He took a leading roll in the great victory."

Why will Ike win in the Fall? Peters explained:

"He's a great diplomat. He's a great organizer. He's practical and he's sensible. He has showed that he is a great administrator. He will attract a great many independent votes because the whole country admires him."

YOUTH IS SHOT

CONNELLSVILLE, July 11 (AP)—A blast from a shotgun he was carrying to shoot snakes killed Donald Pirl, 23, of Rogers Mills today while he was picking berries.

World's Largest Steers Sold For $1866

At Perkiomenville Sales Stables

Last Monday, July 7, before an overflowing crowd and many photographers, two of the largest steers on hoof were knocked down at auction. From early morning to late at night, young and old, viewed tons and tons of walking beef. One weighed 3195 lbs. The other weighed 3025 lbs. Total price paid for both was $1866. These steers could have weighed 200 lbs. more if not for constant moving and disturbance caused by the curious crowd of 5000 and more. The buyer from Hamburg, Pa., implied that he would keep the steers for show purposes.

AUCTION MONDAY, July 14th

will consist of approximately 100 head of dairy cows. Special herds from Snyder and Wayne counties. Balance are top quality upstate and local cows. Lot of Feeder Shoats, etc. Livestock goes on the block starting at 12:30 P.M.

POULTRY and EGG SALE Starts 1 P.M.

Also all kinds of Produce and Dry Goods on sale by local farmers and dealers.

SPECIAL SALE OF TWO FINE PINTO HORSES

Both young, sound and quiet to ride. Also a few very nice Ponies.

BEEF CATTLE SALE Starts at 7 P.M.

Your choice of all kinds of Livestock, Cows, Hogs, Calves, Bulls Sheep, Horses, etc. BE ON HAND EARLY.

If you have livestock for sale, call, us. We provide truck service.

Vacation!

Vacations you'll long remember are pleasure trips in a safe car. If you're not sure of your present model, trade for a car that will not only serve you on a vacation trip but for years to come. It's a smart time to trade because prices are at their low summer level. Right now the steel strike has some dealers thinking of shortages . . . of car prices shooting up. Is there any reason why you should wait? See us today for a better car . . . AT A TRULY LOW PRICE!

Good Looker!
1948 Plymouth
Special Deluxe 4-door Sedan. Clean as a new model. Mileage is low, tires are very good. Sparkling green finish, radio and heater equipped. A one owner car you are going to like. See it today!

Best Model!
1950 Chrysler
Imperial 4-door Sedan. Best of the '50 models. Custom appointments including push-button windows, fluid drive, radio, heater and automatic transmission. Shiny black finish and white wall tires. Mileage is low. Here's a luxury car at big saving. See it!

Double Duty!
1951 Plymouth
Suburban. A car you can use graciously for pleasure and those odd hulking carrying jobs. Dark green finish, good tires, heater, etc. Mileage is low. Price is low, too!

Vacation Honey!
1951 Plymouth
Club Coupe. Load the luggage into this mighty mite and take off—you have the time of your life in this low mileage vacation car. Lite blue finish shines like new, tires are of the best. Don't decide on any car until you've seen this beauty.

Youth Continues To Lift Growing Calf With Ease

The docile Holstein calf at the Shupe and Windle Feed store, Third and Hanover streets, is progressing like any well-fed child, but you couldn't prove it by Russell Norris, 16, of Unionville, one of the best calf lifters in the area.

Two weeks ago the tall, strong Norris, president of the FFA chapter at North Coventry High school, lifted the Holstein with a minimum of grunts and strain.

Yesterday he hiked the calf with similar ease and vows he can do the same in a week or two. Some people disagree. The calf, currently 6 weeks old, will be sold to Kiwanis club in another 10 weeks.

Most dairymen consider a 4-month-old calf quite an arm load, but Norris plans to check on the black and white critter's progress in the fattening pen with the lifting technique.

MONEY RECEIVED through sale of the calf may go to Kiwanis underprivileged children's fund or toward a grange project in Norco in the Fall.

Norris, who will be a Junior at Norco in September, helps his father on their 45-acre Unionville farm during the Summer.

He Can Still Do It

Checking the growth of a calf by lifting proves no burden to Russell Norris, 16-year-old Pottstown RD 1 farm hand who yesterday hiked a growing Holtstein with the ease of ploughing a potato patch. Russell picked the black and white Holstein off the stable floor with almost less strain than he accomplished the task two weeks ago. The calf is housed at the Shupe and Windle Feed stores, Third and Hanover street. After three months of lifting and feeding it will be presented to Kiwanis club, which will sell it at public auction.

Small Boy Cuts Arm In Fall Down Steps

A broken bottle was the cause of severe injury to a 3-year-old Spring Mount boy yesterday afternoon.

Eli Musselman, son of Ernest Musselman, Glenside avenue, Spring Mount, fell while playing on cement steps. He was treated at Pottstown hospital dispensary for a severe laceration of the right forearm.

The youth landed on the broken bottle when he fell down the steps.

He was brought to the hospital at 3:30 o'clock and discharged after the wound was treated.

Man's Bail Continued Until His Court Trial

Earl Ronald Decker, 21, of Pottstown RD 3, was continued under $500 bail until his appearance in Montgomery county court at a hearing yesterday, on a charge of drunken driving before Justice of the Peace Raymond C. Kelley.

The accused man was arrested early on the morning of July 5 and $500 bail was posted pending a hearing on July 7.

The July 7 hearing was postponed until yesterday with the bail being continued.

Labor Leader Raps GOP Party Platform

WASHINGTON, July 11 (AP) — Al Hayes, president of the International Association of Machinists, today denounced the labor plank in the Republican party platform as "unfriendly to labor."

In telegrams to the four major candidates, sent out before the nomination of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Hayes declared:

"The so-called labor plank in the Republican party's platform makes it strikingly clear that the Republican party intends to remain anti and unfriendly to labor.

"The text of this plank is a gross misrepresentation and distortion of facts and its false sugar-coating will not mislead the overwhelming majority of American workers."

Hayes urged that before adjourning the GOP convention should amend the labor plank and write in a "straightforward, unambiguous pledge which will assure the people of genuine equal opportunity with dignity and self-respect."

25-Seat Church Is Dedicated

The tiniest church in Melbourne, Australia, and one of the smallest in the world, is the quaint chapel of the Pallottine Missionary Fathers' college in Studley park. It is an exact replica of a centuries-old church at Schoenstatt, near Coblenz in the Rhineland, and is 24 feet by 13 feet. It seats 25 persons. Father A. Omasmeier walks from the chapel following dedication ceremonies.

Stevenson Says He Only Wants Governor's Job

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 11 (AP) —Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson, mentioned as a possible Democratic presidential nominee, said today after the nomination of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower he "wants no other office" than governor and hopes all Democratic convention delegates will respect his wishes.

At the same time, he predicted defeat in November for Eisenhower by saying the choice of his own party will win the election.

A statement issued for Stevenson appeared to raise anew the question whether he was taking himself out of the presidential race.

Issued by Stevenson's press secretary, William I. Flanagan, it said in part:

"He is a candidate for re-election as governor of Illinois, and as he has often said, wants no other office. He will ask the Illinois delegation to continue to respect his wishes and he hopes all of the delegates will do likewise."

THE STATEMENT for the governor was said by some political strategists to have been the first definite move on Stevenson's part to halt a draft action. Earlier in the Democratic campaign, some quarters reported that Stevenson was willing to run against Sen. Robert A. Taft. But, those sources added, Stevenson was unwilling to battle Eisenhower with whom he basically agrees on foreign policy.

However, the statement said Stevenson's "own position has not been altered in any way by the Republican convention."

J. M. Arvey, National Democratic committeeman from Illinois, reportedly has been working to put Stevenson up for the presidential nomination. In this work, Arvey has had the support of political leaders in many sections of the country.

The Stevenson statement was given out while the governor was entertaining at a luncheon the cast of "Forever This Land," an historical drama about the youth of Abraham Lincoln.

New Switch Needed Before Traffic Light Can Operate Here

Borough Manager Dow I. Sears last night said the traffic light at Prospect and Charlotte streets will be in operation as soon as a new type switch is received and installed.

An inspector from the Middle Department association of Fire underwriters, Norristown, yesterday reported he could not pass the wiring job on the light until the switch was changed.

Sears pointed out the inspection must be made and approved in order to comply with the borough fire code.

William H. Price, borough electrician, said he used the same material in the Prospect and Charlotte streets light as had been used in previous installations.

Sears explained the type of switch has changed. He added the inspector agreed to approve the light without an outside ground when he found out the light standard is installed six feet, in the ground and the ground runs through the standard.

STATE CALLS FOR BIDS

HARRISBURG, July 11 (AP)—The State Highway and Bridge authority today called for bids Aug 8 for construction of two more sections of the Allentown-Bethlehem-Easton bypass on U. S. Route 22.

Hobart, the capital of Tasmania, is said to have one of the finest harbors in the world.

Three-Ring Circus Starts Raising Tents For 2 Performances

The circus comes to town today!

The huge lot opposite the Pottstown Youth Center was turned into a riot of color and noise this morning as hundreds of workmen of the Great Hagen Brothers three-ring circus set up the tents for the unit's two scheduled performances, at 2:15 and 8 p. m.

Every phase of circus life, from aerialists and clowns to animal acts will be seen by the thousands expected to flock to the grounds on Firestone drive during the day.

An unscheduled third show may be presented soon after the first if the overflow of spectators at the latter demands it, an official of the American Business club has announced.

The club is sponsoring the circus to raise money for its Spastic Paralysis fund.

Pitch Cart Explodes, Fireman Is Burned

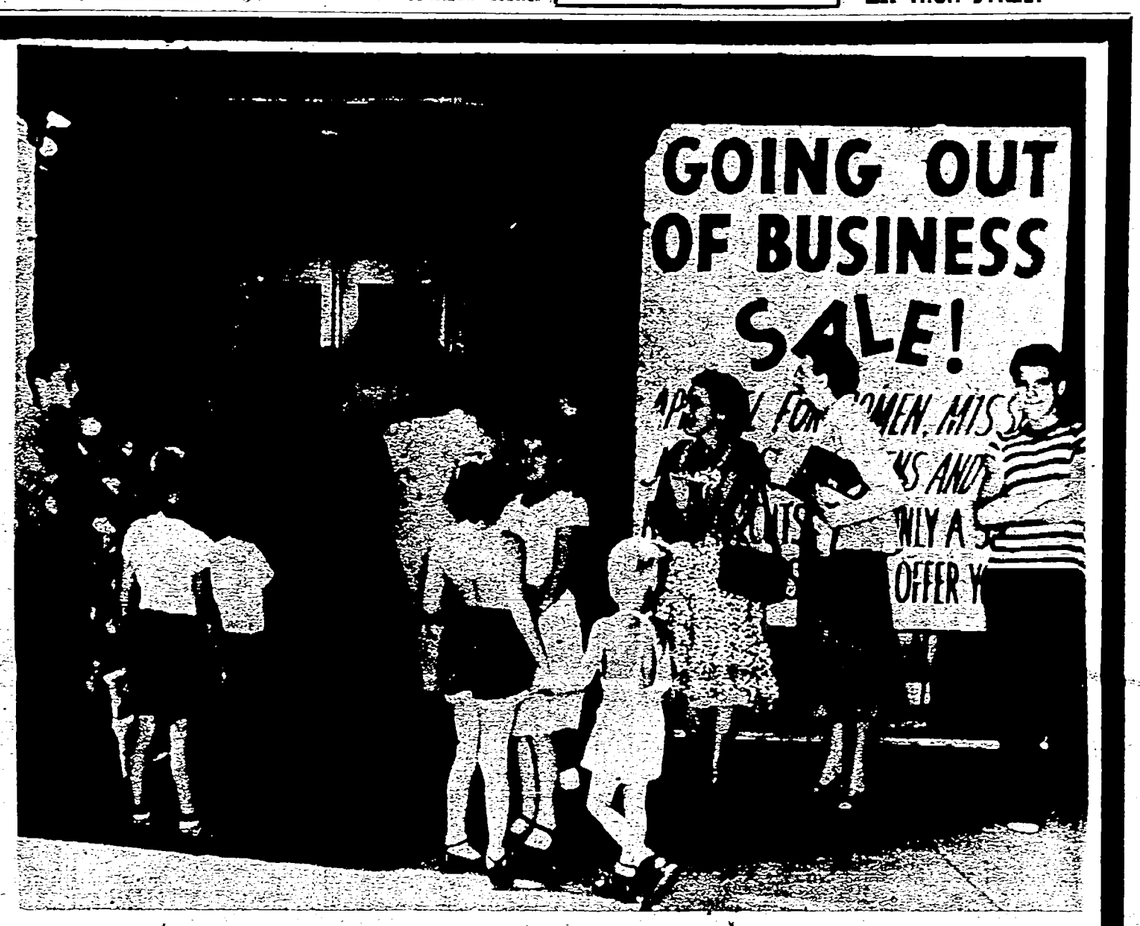

PHILADELPHIA, July 11 (AP) — A fireman was burned, a truck destroyed, and two houses were slightly damaged after a kerosene-fired pitch cart exploded today in the back of a North Philadelphia home.

Fireman William Davis, 30, suffered burns of the right forearm.

Four men from the Spencer Roofing company, were repairing the roof of Edward Heenan's home when the explosion happened.

YOUR GEM STORY FOR TODAY

Mr. Lewis M. Borgiet of East St. in Pottstown writes, "When was the most recent large Diamond found and where?"

The President Gasper Dutra was discovered on July 25, 1949 in Brazil. It is the third largest Gem ever found in the western hemisphere. It was cut into a brilliant style gem and weighs 138 carats.

And Mrs. June Kummerer of Laurel St. in Pottstown wants to know if there is a good imitation for Turquoise.

Yes. Varieties of turquoise substitutes have been and are being used, as well as various methods for treating inferior but genuine material to improve its color. A very good substitute is now being manufactured on a large scale by the Phoenix Gem Co. of Phoenix, Arizona. In 1950 this firm manufactured over nine million carats of this substance to be used in inexpensive jewelry. Over 75% of the "turquoise" now set in the western style Indian jewelry is not turquoise at all but is this manufactured imitation.

Miss Irene Kopcho of Keim St. writes, "What is a Bohemian Garnet?"

This is a term used to refer to a garnet found in the old province of Bohemia, which is usually dark intense red in color. Most often these Garnets are seen as rose cut stones and are used in low carat cluster jewelry.

Remember, if you have any jewelry problems, please don't hesitate to call on us. There is no charge for any consultations, for we are only too happy to oblige. We have full facilities to identify all gems, so look through your old jewelry. You may have a very valuable piece in your collection.

See you next Saturday,

whereas the propagandist starts with a conclusion and stacks the cards to make facts fit."

Harter stated that propaganda in the U S is chiefly concerned with four major isues. These, he said, were "nationalism against internationalism, militarism against pacificism, Americanism against communism and unionism against the interests of management."

SOME OF the techniques used by propagandists were outlined by Harter. He said that "identification" is a common method used by politicians. In appealing to voters, the office seeker will claim a farm boyhood if speaking to farmers, which is a means of identification.

"Another common device is symbolization." Harter explained This is the method whereby a white-haired old woman, which is a popular symbol for kindness, is used to put across a program for specific interests.

The talk was one of a series of weekly fireside discussions at the Summer training center in human relations.

Street Lights Asked Along Swamp Pike

Swamp pike residents in New Hanover township have petitioned their board of supervisors for the installation of street lights along the pike from the township's western boundary to the New Hanover Reformed church near the Schenk hotel.

The petition was presented at the board's meeting last night. Supervisor Clarence Renninger said the request would be studied and a decision announced at the board's Aug. 15 meeting.

Within the next two weeks, Renninger said, a 1500-foot section of unpaved Church road between Route 73 and Legislative road 46006 will be macadamized. The board already has paved 2¾ miles of the dirt road.

President William Seasholtz directed the meeting, which all members attended.

Russell Sign in Hotel Is Taken Down for Ike

CHICAGO, July 11 (AP)—Russell-for-president headquarters here said tonight they had agreed to take down a sign for the Democratic Senator before Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower appeared under it.

Eisenhower's public appearance after his acceptance speech at the Republican National convention was arranged for the front of the Conrad Hilton hotel.

At the sixth floor level of the hotel, the Russell people had put up a big sign, some 30 by 6 feet, reading "Russell for President."

A spokesman for the headquarters of Sen Richard B. Russell of Georgia, seeking the Democratic nomination to oppose Eisenhower, said hotel management asked that the sign be taken down, at least until after the Eisenhower public appearance. They agreed to do so out of courtesy to the general, he added.

3 Prisoners Escape Rockview Penitentiary

BELLFONTE, July 11 (AP)—Three prisoners escaped from the Rockview penitentiary prison farm today apparently in one of the prison's trucks.

Carl Conway, assistant deputy warden, identified the men as Anderson Shaver, 31, sentenced from Greene county to 2 to 5 years for burglary and larceny; Oscar R. Roll, 32, Washington county, 2 to 6 years for burglary and larceny, and Leonard Soltis, 19, Washington county, one to 5 years for larceny.

Conway said that a team of horses tended by Soltis was found tied in a grove of trees. He said authorities believe that Soltis and Shaver, who worked with the nursery gang, escaped in the truck driven by Roll as his job around the farm.

Car Crowded Off Road Into Cement Block

Carl Supplee, of 34 West Third street, was forced to the side of Route 422 in his car last night by a speeding machine, causing him to ram into a large cement block.

Supplee, who is in the Army, arrived home today on a furlough from Fort Eustis, Tex.

He said he was traveling toward Limerick about 8 p. m. and was approximately halfway between Sanatoga and Limerick when the accident happened.

Supplee reported that a black 1949 sedan crowded him to the side of the highway, forcing him into the cement block and into the brush along the side of the road.

FRED MILLS, of Cedars, Montgomery county, passed the scene of the accident and attempted to overtake the speeding sedan but could not.

He confirmed Supplee's story with Jeffersonville State police who estimated the damage to Supplee's automobile amounted to approximately $300.

Mills informed the police that the black sedan had a dent in its trunk and that the car bore Pennsylvania license plates.

Boy Scout Executive Is Believed Drowned

WILKES-BARRE, July 11 (AP)—A Boy Scout executive from Scranton was believed to have drowned in the Lehigh river near here today. State police said they had sighted his body on an island in the midst of the swollen, fast-flowing waters.

State police listed the victim as Donald Thomas, 27, of Scranton. He was a field Scout executive of the Wyoming council, Boy Scouts of America. He formerly resided in Wilkes-Barre.

A second executive, 46-year-old Calvin Hall of Shavertown, was saved from drowning in a dramatic rescue from a tree in the middle of the river early today. He was reported in good condition at Wilkes-Barre General hospital.

Garden Club of Pottstow... Meets At Burdan Home

The usual female chatter heard at club parties ... altered yesterday afternoon when members of the Po... town Garden club met at the home of Mrs. C. C. Burd... Rosedale.

True, there were hats of many types to comment ... and lovely floral arrangements to discuss, but the m... topic was the nomination of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenho... for president of the United States.

A radio was kept going during the afternoon. ... news of the convention drifted out onto the cool porch ... the home.

THE AFTERNOON'S activities began with a box luncheon by the members and their guests on the porch and lawn. A short business meeting followed, with Mrs. Raymond Schumacher, president, presiding.

Mrs. Carson C. Potter, horticultural chairman, gave a talk on plants, informing the members of the types of plants ready to be placed in the ground now for permanence, and those seeds to sow for plants for next year's bloom.

She showed a vase of the flower, Queen Anne's lace, which she had dyed to a heavenly shade of blue with ordinary dye used to color Easter eggs.

AN ARTICLE on the introduction of the Peace rose as an all-American winner, and the events of the world at the time of it's introduction, was read by Mrs. Burdan.

Feature attraction of the afternoon were the many pretty hats, fashioned from flowers and vegetables and modeled for prizes by the members who made them.

Mrs. Harold Fillman won first prize for the prettiest hat. She featured various garden flowers with a gold chin tie. Mrs. Roy Hoel was a close second with her creation of cerise hollyhocks.

VOTED THE most unique was a hat of flowers placed in an authentic bird's nest, worn by Mrs. Thomas Reidnouer. The flowers consisted of zinnias, feverfew and snapdragons.

Mrs. Cecil Hancox captured first prize in the second unique class wearing a hat trimmed with ivy and peanuts, and in keeping with the affairs of the world, topped with a toy elephant perched upon the crown.

AMONG THE flowers shown in the horticultural specimen group during the floral exhibition, was a green and white caladium brought by Mrs. Carl Troutman, who won first prize in her group. Pleasant Atmosphere for Pleasant Chat

The shade a graceful willow tree and the coolness of the swimming pool in the background made a lovely setting for chatting yesterday afternoon when members of the Garden club were entertained at the home of Mrs. C. C. Burdan, Rosedale. Pictured above are, (left to right), Mrs. Burdan, Mrs. Raymond Schumacher and Mrs. Francis Hunsberger.

Women's Activities

Mr. Zartman to Marry Annie Thompson Today

Miss Annie Thompson will become the bride of Mr. Calvin Zartman today in St. Gabriel's church.

Miss Thompson is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Thompson, Douglassville RD 1. Mr. Zartman is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Marlin Zartman, Douglassville RD 2.

A reception will be held following the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents. After the reception the bride and bridegroom will leave for Texas where they will reside. Mr. Zartman is stationed in Texas with the U. S. Army.

Hospitals Want Cookies, Cards Through Red Cross

Mrs. Robert Smith, chairman of the entertainment, instruction and supply committee of the Red Cross, Potstown chapter, has announced a request received from Valley Forge Army hospital for greeting cards, and from Coatesville Veterans' hospital for homemade cookies.

The greeting cards, which will be used by the hospital patients to send to their families, may be for any occasion—birthday, anniversary, get well. Those with cards to donate may leave them at the Red Cross office in the YMCA, second floor.

Coatesville officials have requested 20 pounds of homemade cookies to be donated the first week in September. Any individuals or organizations who wish to donate cookies may call the Red Cross office, telephone 3055, for further information.

Summer Cold Cuts Easy To Make, Cool on Cook

Summer is the time of year when cold cuts come into their own. They're just the thing for quick and easy dinners, spur of the moment picnics and late evening snacks.

On the hottest of days, a platter of cold cuts for dinner is as tempting as anything you could set before your family. Choose all of the family's favorite meats and garnish the platter prettily with parsley, radish roses and ripe olives.

With the pretty array, serve a simple menu of potato or macaroni salad, sliced tomatoes and cucumbers, rye bread and a fresh fruit dessert. One hot dish in every menu makes the meal more appetizing and digestible, so choose a hot beverage or serve a vegetable or hot rolls. Heat rolls in the double boiler to avoid using the oven.

DURING THE Summer months, the younger generation is likely to get into a picnic mood at a moments notice. Keep cold cuts in your refrigerator at all times so that the youngsters can slap a sandwich togetehr in a hurry and join the gang for an outing.

When you're serving guests in the late evening or at an informal porch luncheon or supper, there's something gay and chummy about serving a tray of cold cuts. With rye bread and a tossed salad, it's a meal all in one. If you use pretty paper napkins and paper plates you'll find entertaining no burden at all, even in the hottest weather.

Here is how to serve a cold cuts supper tray:

ON ONE SIDE of the platter, arrange alternating slices of Summer sausage and liver sausage. Next to these, place cornucopias of bolonga or pimiento loaf filled with chive cottage cheese. Make ham rolls by rolling "boiled" ham around sticks of processed American or Swiss type cheese. Add these to the tray along with some sliced rye bread. Center the tray with a shallow bowl filled with a salad made from mixed greens, tomato wedges, sliced cucumbers and sliced hard cooked eggs. Just before serving, toss with a French dressing or a combination of mayonnaise and French dressing. Or you might center the tray with assorted relishes—cucumber and carrot sticks, ripe olives, stuffed celery, etc.

Refrigerator Dinners Help The Housewife Keep Cool

Let your refrigerator work to keep you cool during the hot weather. Plan a meal which will wait in the refrigerator until serving time. Usually you will want to add one last-minute hot dish. This can be a quick-cooked frozen vegetable or hot potato salad which has been prepared beforehand and is ready to re-heat.

The meat for the refrigerator meal might be a molded meat salad, cold sliced meat loaf or cold cuts. Serve with frozen peas, potato chips, sliced tomatoes and cucumbers, whole wheat bread, sherbet and cookies.

Never boil an egg! Lower one egg at a time into a saucepan of simmering water to cover. Simmer three to five minutes for soft-cooked eggs, twenty minutes for hard-cooked eggs.

Their Hats Are Made of Real Flowers

Real flowers, vegetables and even a bird's nest were stolen for a while from Nature to compete for prizes in the hat show sponsored yesterday afternoon by the Garden club as one of the features of the meeting at the home of Mrs. C. C. Burdan, Rosedale. Left to right, are: Mrs. Harold Fillman, Mrs. Roy Hoel, Mrs. C. W. Hancox and Mrs. Thomas J. Reidenouer.

...by new ideas in fashion accessories and textiles.

Italy, publicly scornful of French leadership in fashions, will follow one Paris lead this year. An entrance fee of $100 is to be charged each firm attending the shows.

Previously Italy avoided any charge, believing shows were repaid by buyer good will. This was particularly true last year. Many buyers, after leaving Italy, protested the $100 admission charges made in Paris by Dior, Balmain and Balenciaga to see their showing.

Giorgini made the new charge here reluctantly to keep the shows self-supporting in the face of mounting costs, he says.

Using the top burner of your gas range, fry sliced frankfurters. Add corn bread batter, then bake like corn bread. Invert, cut in wedges, and serve as upside-down cake.

PERSONALS

Mr. and Mrs. John J. Schneck, 961 High street, and Mrs. Mae Leeder, 67 Franklin street, recently returned from a visit to North Carolina where they visited the Schneck's son, LCDR Robert J. Schneck, who is presently the regimental chaplain for the Sixth Marine regiment. They saw the Commandant's review of the Fleet Marine Force troops and equipment, for the new Commandant, Gen. Lemuel C. Shepherd. It was the largest review of its kind since World War II.

• • •

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Pickard, Stowe, are touring Canada while on their honeymoon. Mr. Pickar is a supervisor at Jacob's Aircraft company, and Mrs. Pickar, the former Mrs. Vida Hain Ganser, Reading, is a nurse.

For Cool Summer Cooking Try Quick Broiled Dinners

Broiled dinners are good choices for Summer because the main course can be cooked quickly all at the same time. For instance, ground beef patties require only 12-15 minutes to broil. Tomato halves topped with grated cheese, and cooked potato slices brushed with butter (or patties made from leftover mashed potatoes) can be popped into the broiler when the meat is partially cooked and ready to turn. The entire meal comes out hot and savory after only fifteen minutes total cooking time.

Other budget-class broilable meats are frankfurters, canned or pre-cooked sausage and luncheon meat slices.

Arsonia Glenn to Speak For Eastern Star Group

Miss Arsonia Glenn will represent the Third district of the Order of the Easter Star in an oratorical contest at the 35th annual session of the Deborah Grand chapter Monday, July 14, at the Rajah Temple in Reading.

She will speak on the subject: "How Can We, the Common Citizen, Convince the People of the Under-Privileged and Poverty-Stricken Parts of the World, How Vitally Important Democracy Is to Their Future."

Miss Glenn was twice winner of the annual spelling bee sponsored by the Civic league and also winner of an oratorical contest sponsored by Keystone chapter 87, OES.

She is a Sophomore at Pottstown Senior High school and also a member of the Junior choir of Second Baptist church.

She is a daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Isaiah Glenn, 631 Beech street.

Top-Of-The-Range Meals Best Bets for Summer

Top-of-the-range meals are favorites in the Summertime. For these, select meats which cook quickly. The broilable meats listed are good skillet choices. In addition, canned meats such as meat stews, spaghetti with meat and sauce and corned beef hash require only a few minutes time to be table-ready.

When a meat casserole is the choice for dinner, plan an entire oven-cooked meal around it, chosing foods which require the same temperature. Make the casserole in the cool of the morning and refrigerate it until baking time. Vegetables can be steam-cooked in a covered dish in the oven while the casserole bakes.

You can cook two or three vegetables at a time in a pressure saucepan if you use a divider; the vegetables rest on a rack this way and favors do not intermingle.

BEATRICE FAIRFAX'S

Advice to the Lovelorn

Don't Look Too Hungry, Girls

Dear Miss Fairfax:

We are two college girls—tall, long, lean, hungry-looking and 22 years of age. We are graduating from college this year, and thus far have had no success in acquiring male companions.

Would you say there was any hope for us securing the above in the teaching profession?

Please give us some information which would be beneficial to us and to other girls in our same predicament.

T. O. M. (Meaning Two Old Maids)

Dear T. O. M.:

First, I think I had better say that if you go around stressing the fact that you are "tall, long, lean and hungry-looking," you are not going to do your chances of romance any good at all. Such a description of yourselves is enough to send any boy rushing off in the opposite direction. I advise you to stop thinking about how unattractive you look and begin to play up your assets — or was it your idea that the qualities you enumerate are actually the best you have to offer, and that they should pique the curiosity of all young males?

As for whether or not you are likely to find romantic interests in the teaching profession, I would say that all depends on how successful you become in this matter of playing up your really attractive qualities. It also depends on how many young men there are in the town where you go to teach. If it is an isolated place, far out in the country, then obviously the opportunities would be scarce, if not downright non-existent. On the other hand, if the school is located in a large city, there should be plenty of opportunities to meet young men. Teachers do get married, you know.

If you will send me a stamped addressed envelope, I will be glad to forward to you my suggestions on how to be popular. I think you will find them helpful. If you act on them during the Summer, perhaps your problem about the teaching profession will solve itself.

Her Friend Has An Obsession About Cleaning House

Dear Miss Fairfax:

There is a woman in my town who lives, dreams and talks of nothing but housework. All she does when she meets you is to speak of how much work she did that day, and how she cleans to all hours of the night.

Now it is a fine thing to be a clean housekeeper, but it sure gets to be one big pain hearing about it all the time from someone. I have heard that when a person talks like this there is some cause for it—a mania or something—but she seems to feel so proud to tell about it. She has no social life. All her friends are sick to death of hearing about what she does, and we are all sorry for her children because they are not allowed to play around the house or bring friends into the home because it's just been cleaned.

What do you make out of this, and do you blame us for getting tired of it? A. P.

Dear A. P.:

You have heard correctly that there is a cause—and a name—for such behavior as your friend's. It is called an obsession, and there is always a hidden cause for any obsession. Usually, as I understand it, it means that the individual has no satisfactory outlet for his or her emotions, and so the emotional energy is all put into carrying some one thing to an extreme.

I would think that instead of letting your friend know that you are sick and tired of hearing her talk about her house cleaning, you might perhaps help her to find some additional interests to which she can transfer some of this emotional energy of hers. You say she has no social life, and that is probably one of her troubles. Don't you think you and her other friends might perhaps do something to draw her into outside life in some way?

It may be, of course, that the basic cause for her behaviour lies so deep that no one but an expert who understands such things could really help her. But at least you might make a try, and see what you could do in the way of drawing her out socially. It would be a very kind and worthwhile act.

Mr. and Mrs. Koch

Mr. and Mrs. Fernley E. Koch, (above), smile from their automobile as they pulled away from Trinity Evangelical Congregational church after their wedding recently. Mrs. Koch is the former Miss Helen Louise Thomas, daughter of Mrs. Stella Thomas, 383 Walnut street. Mr. Koch is a son of Mr. Arthur Koch, 230 North Franklin street.

Make-your-own ice cream sundaes are popular with the young set. They'll enjoy choosing toppings from among the following: Maple syrup, pineapple tidbits, semi-sweet chocolate pieces, marshmallow fluff, coconut, chocolate sauce, butterscotch sauce, sliced bananas, and maraschino cherries.

Don't work salt and pepper into hamburger meat before the patties are cooked or you are likely to have meat that is too compact. Shape the patties lightly and sprinkle them with salt and pepper as they are turned on the grill.

Dwight Eisenhower's roots are firmly established in Pennsylvania soil.

The General is the owner of a farm near Gettysburg and is the grandson of a Pennsylvania Dutch minister whose old home at Elizabethville is still standing.

The Eisenhowers migrated to "Penn's Woods" about 1732. They were farmers and prospered on their land, which lay near the Susquehanna river. Old records show that the Eisenhowers were peace-loving people, although some members of the family fought in he Revolution and in the Civil War.

THE DAVID Eisenhowers lived for a short time in Denison, Texas, where their third son, Dwight, was born. A few months after his birth they moved to Abilene, Kansas. It was in Abilene that the Eisenhower brothers grew to adulthood.

Today the people of Adams County, Pennsylvania, consider General Dwight Eisenhower a neighbor. When he thought his military career was ended after World War II, he selected as his place of residence the former Redding farm, a mile and a half south of Gettysburg on the famous Civil War battlefield.

In 1946, when the General was awarded an honorary doctor of laws degree by Gettysburg College, he said, "This state was the home of my paternal ancestors for 130 years. In fact, my father was born here. It was in Gettysburg that I held as a captain my first independent command.

Early in 1951, the General planned to move to his Gettysburg farm. Only his recall to duty prevented him from becoming, officially, a resident of Pennsylvania.

Hoover Still to Vote Republican Ticket

CHICAGO, July 11 (AP) — Former President Herbert Hoover, commenting on the nomination of General Eisenhower, said today "being a Republican, I shall vote the Republican ticket."

Earlier this week Mr. Hoover announced himself as for Senator Taft.

Germany Surrendered 11 Months After Eisenhower Invasion Order

Eleven months after Dwight D. Eisenhower gave the fateful word that started the Anglo-American invasion of Europe in World War II—one of the biggest gambles in military history—Germany surrendered unconditionally and the Supreme Commander of the Allied Expeditionary Force took his place among the great captains of all time.

He returned home to receive many high honors and glowing tributes. The top Army position of Chief of Staff was his. His memoirs brought an estimated $1,000,000. Strong Eisenhower-for-President booms were started in both major parties in 1948 despite his disavowal of political ambitions. These persisted until he announced with complete finality that he would not accept such a nomination if it were given him.

In 1948 he retired from the Army and became president of Columbia University. But he continued as a military adviser. "As long as I am above ground," he said, "I am never going to leave the Army."

Early in 1950, General Eisenhower was recalled to the military scene to serve temporarily as chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. Columbia University gave him a leave for the several weeks he was on duty in Washington.

Broke Back of Axis

Before becoming Supreme Commander at the close of 1243, Eisenhower had led the Allied force which in a single year snatched North Africa from the Axis, exterminated Marshal Erwin Rommel's once dreaded Africa Corps, conquered Sicily and squeezed Italy out of the war.

It was on June 6, 1944 that the soldiers of liberation landed on the beaches of Normandy to embark on what their leader called "a great crusade" to free the world of tyranny: on May 7, 1945, the chief of staff of the German army signed the surrender in a school building at Reims, France, where General of the Army Eisenhower had his advanced headquarters.

Between those dramatic events, the back of Adolf Hitler's once mighty wehrmacht had been broken and many of Germany's cities reduced to heaps of rubble.

A former major general in the German army said that Eisenhower was regarded by the German general staff officers as the greatest general of the war because of his able planning, his daring and the extent of his authority.

"He took great gambles, as in Africa and later on the French beaches, but he won and that justified his daring," the former enemy commented.

He Hated War

General Eisenhower was hailed in London as a genius of warfare and lionized at a mammoth homecoming celebration in New York as the exemplar of the fighting man.

Yet this homespun American from the plains of Kansas hated "this damnable thing of war" and wanted to see "people in my profession permanently out of a job."

The first movement to "draft" Eisenhower for the 1948 Presidential nomination got under way within Republican ranks and gained an amazing impetus. Finally the General took the unusual step of announcing flatly that he was not available for "nomination to high political office."

After the Republicans had selected Thomas E. Dewey for their standard bearer, some influential Democrats started an Eisenhower boom in advance of their nominating convention. That movement also rolled along at a snow-balling pace and it took two statements from the General to stop it.

Although he declared that he "could not" accept the nomination, some of his diehard supporters persisted in their campaign in his behalf. Then he announced with complete finality that he "would refuse" to accept it. Subsequently the Democrats nominated President Harry S. Truman.

Received Many Honors

A few months after the war, on Nov. 19, 1945, General Eisenhower was elevated to the Army's top position of Chief of Staff. Decorations from many foreign countries and numerous honorary college degrees were conferred upon him.

A mountain peak in Canada was named in his honor and he was presented a part of an old castle in Scotland "on behalf of the Scottish nation in recognition of his great leadership in the war."

The General's birthplace in Texas was made a permanent memorial to him, and his boyhood home in Kansas became a national shrine.

He went to Abilene, Kans., in 1947 to present a collection of war decorations and other mementos to the Eisenhower Memorial Foundation. The Foundation was engaged in raising funds for a memorial honoring Eisenhower.

General Eisenhower turned over command of the Army to Gen Omar N. Bradley, his successor as Chief of Staff, on Feb. 7, 1948. On May 2 he took his farewell salute and followed into civilian life the millions of former GI's he had commanded.

He assumed the presidency of Columbia on June 7, the fourth anniversary of "D-Day-plus-1." The actual anniversary of the invasion of Normandy fell on a Sunday.

As he took over his duties, General Eisenhower recalled that on that date four years previously he was visiting General Bradley and Field Marshal Sir Bernard L. Montgomery "and the people along the beaches" in Normandy.

He Signalled Invasion

From his camp hidden in the sleeping English countryside General Eisenhower gave the signal that set in motion the vast invasion armada—warships, transports and a strange assortment of amphibious craft—toward France on that overcast June day in 1944.

As H-Hour of D-Day approached he stood on a rooftop in England and watched a mighty airborne armada form in the sky and wing its way toward France to begin the final phase of the war of liberation. He spent the greater part of invasion eve among the troops, walking from group to group, chatting and laughing with the men, giving them pats on the backs.

Originally D-Day had been scheduled for 24 hours earlier, but the weather forecasters warned that a storm was approaching and the invasion had to be postponed. The weather still looked bad when it finally was ordered, but on the prediction of clearing skies the expedition moved out.

During the night of June 5-6, two divisions of American airborne troops parachuted onto the Cherbourg Peninsula behind the enemy lines. And then as red tinged the dawn in prophecy of the blood that was to be spilled that day, American, British and Canadian troops landed in northern France and the battle of the beachhead was underway.

Called It "Great Crusade"

The troops were grim and determined. Their leaders were confident. And they had the ringing message of their Supreme Commander that "we will accept nothing less than full victory" over the German masters of the continent.

"You are about to embark on a great crusade," General Eisenhower had told the men in an order of the day. "The eyes of the world are upon you and the hopes and prayers of all liberty-loving people go with you.

"In company with our brave allies and brothers in arms on other fronts, you will bring about the destruction of the German war machine, elimination of Nazi tyranny over the oppressed peoples of Europe and security for ourselves in a free world. . .

"I have full confidence in your courage, devotion to duty and skill in battle. We will accept nothing less than full victory. Good luck and let us all beseech the blessing of Almighty God upon this great and noble undertaking."

Weather conditions still were far from favorable as the assault craft drove toward the enemy held beaches. Heavy swells made the going difficult, left the troops weak with seasickness. But the decision had been made and nothing—not even the Germans—could stop the great forces sweeping toward France. The Germans knew invasion was coming—but they had not known when or where.

Enemy Pinned Down

(Field Marshal Gen. Karl von Rundstedt, who commanded the German armies in the west at the time, said after his capture shortly before the end of the conflict that the Allies' great air power "broke up all bridges and pinned me down completely and the terrific power of the Allies' naval guns made it absolutely impossible for reserves to come up.")

General Eisenhower directed the invasion from an advanced outpost in England, but on D-Day-plus-one he boarded a British cruiser and steamed along the invasion coast for several hours to get a close look at the situation and to confer with his operational commanders. Then, a few days later, he led a party of top United States military and naval commanders on a tour of the American held section of the Normandy battlefront.

Rapidly General Eisenhower built up reserves of supplies, ammunition, troops and armor. And on July 25, with the then Lieutenant General Bradley directing the operations in the field, the American First Army burst out of the beachhead in the great Saint Lo breakthrough which was to sweep the Germans out of France.

German Army Destroyed

The breakthrough turned Lt. Gen George S. Patton's Third Army loose and the spectacular American drive was underway. The First and Third Armies virtually destroyed Field Marshal Guenther von Kluge's Seventh Army.

After victory in Europe, General Eisenhower looked back to D Day and said if the invasion had been postponed beyond the next day it would have had to be delayed for a minimum of 12 days for the right tide conditions. "And that would have put us in the wrong phase for our airborne operations and it would have been pretty bad."

Also had it been postponed, "we would have run right square into that gale," he recalled, referring to a 70-mile storm that roared across the French coast for five days during the week of June 18. It was the worst storm in that area for that season in 40 years and set back the Allies' troop and supply timetable. But by that time the invasion was well under way.

While General Eisenhower realized the inadvisability of delaying the invasion for a fortnight, he still could not risk it without conditions reasonably favorable for its success. It was one of the most difficult decisions he was called on to make.

Vowed to End Nazism

"In a decision like that, of course, there is one thing a commander faces," he explained later. "Sooner or later, you have got to make it and you know it. You have got to say yes or no. That does something. I think, to prepare your mind for the thing."

He added that it is "sometimes a little soul shaking, too" to have to make a decision without time for "cold-blooded analysis" or for discussion with others.

By September the Allies had advanced to the "holy" soil of the Reich, battering the strongly fortified Siegfried Line. In his first proclamation to the people of the invaded country, General Eisenhower said.

"We come as conquerors but not as oppressors." He added that "in the area of Germany occupied by the forces under my command, we shall obliterate Nazism and German militarism."

The fighting inside Germany was grim bloody and bitter. The doughboys had to fight for every yard against a fanatical enemy. In the cold, green, sodden hell of the Hurtgen forest they fought and died bravely pushing the Germans back little by little in some of the toughest fighting of all the invasion.

Hitler's All-Out Effort

And then shortly before the end of 1944 the Germans launched a surprise counter-offensive and drove deep into Belgium and Luxembourg. General Eisenhower called on his men to turn the enemy's "great gamble into his worst defeat" and urged them "to destroy the enemy on the ground, in the air, everywhere—destroy him!"

The Supreme Commander ended his dramatic order of the day with these words.

"United in this determination and with unshakable faith in the cause for which we fight, we will, with God's help, go forward to our greatest victory."

Marshal von Rundstedt made rapid progress before the Allies could counter the bold drive which had burst through a weak point in the American lines.

Then in the battle of the Belgian Bulge the American troops lived up to the faith which General Eisenhower had placed in them, with magnificent displays of heroism and grim determination not to be beaten. Gradually the Nazis were driven back.

(Von Rundstedt revealed later that the counter-offensive was an all-out effort ordered by Adolf Hitler and designed to relieve Allied pressure on the Ruhr. There were indications that Hitler's last hope of avoiding catastrophe collapsed with failure of the Ardennes attack. Eisenhower said the German professional soldiers knew the "jig was up" on the third day after the offensive started.)

Fought on in Desperation

In March of 1945, the Allies crossed the Rhine. The Remagen bridge had been seized intact by a lucky break. Eisenhower quickly revised his plans to exploit this, and the first thrust was made there instead of in the British sector.

General Eisenhower said he made a bet on October 20, 1943, that the war in Europe would end in 1944.

Near the end of that year he declared there had been some reason to believe that Germany might have called it quits after the Battle of France, but that Hitler and his Gestapo managed to maintain their pistol in the back control of the Reich and the war had become a fight to the death for the German people.

"To get peace we've got to fight like hell for it," he said. "Now let's do it."

After Germany's surrender on May 7, 1945, the general said "we have all sorts of evidence that their soldiers knew they were whipped on January 1 (1945), when they got nothing but defeat out of the Ardennes," but they fought on desperately.

At the actual surrender, Col Gen. Gustaf Jodl, chief of staff of the German army, signed for the Nazis and then pleaded for mercy for the German people. An Associated Press correspondent described the scene in these words:

A Stern Eisenhower

"His (Jodl's) face was expressionless. So were the faces of the American, British, Russian and French generals who represented the Allies. All had seen the German murder camps and all knew the furious cruelty of German occupying forces."

After Jodl had finished speaking and sat down, "a moment passed in dead suence" and then the German representatives were taken down the hall to meet General Eisenhower who, with his deputy, Air Chief Marshal Sir Arthur Tedder, stood behind his small desk. Eisenhower's famous smile was gone. Again there was a moment of heavy silence.

"Then Eisenhower spoke," the correspondent's account continued. "He was brief and terse as always. His voice was cold and stern. His steel blue eyes were hard. In a few clipped sentences he made it plain that Germany was a defeated nation and that henceforth all orders to the German people would come from the Allies. He said they would be obeyed.

"Then the Germans filed out. It was over. Nazi Germany had ceased to exist. The war had ended."

Technically peace became effective at 12:01 a.m. European time, May 9, or 6 01 p.m. May 8 Eastern wartime.

From Pioneer Stock

Eisenhower's forebears emigrated from Switzerland before the Revolution and settled in Pennsylvania. After about 150 years some of the family followed the covered wagon trail west and the General was born at Denison, Tex., October 14, 1890.

His father, who went to Kansas in 1878, moved to Texas in 1889, but remained there for only two years. Then he moved the family back to Kansas, near Abilene, and General Eisenhower grew up on a farm there. His parents had met while attending Lane University at Lecompton, Kans.

He was married in 1916 to Miss Mamie Geneva Doud of Denver. Their son, John Sheldon Doud Eisenhower, was graduated from West Point on D-Day and later served as a first lieutenant in Europe.

After World War II, Ike Extended His Career

At the end of World War II, when Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower had reached a peak of military greatness and esteem among his countrymen and their Allies, instead of slipping into retired life, he went forward into a new career.

He had retired from the Army in 1948 to become President of Columbia university, but returned to active duty at the beginning of 1951 as Supreme Allied Commander in Europe. The 12 countries of the North Atlantic Treaty organization selected him as commander of an international army to keep peace in Europe and President Truman appointed him to that post.

Eisenhower continued this second "crusade in Europe" until the end of May of this year, when he flew home for the political wars.

For some time his supporters had carried on a campaign by proxy to get him the Republican presidential nomination. Early in January he issued a statement in Paris saying he would obey "a clear-cut call to political duty" but would not quit his job in Europe to campaign for the GOP nomination.

BUT ON March 20, after sweeping the New Hampshire primary and receiving 107,000 write-in votes in the Minnesota primary, he acknowledgd that he had been forced to "re-examine my personal position and past decision"—in other words, to consider going home to campaign actively. On May 31 he flew home.

A few days later the General took off his uniform and rolled up his sleeves — brand new civilian sleeves—for the political battle. He voluntarily retired without pay from the Army he had served for 37 years, his salary, just recently increased, and allowances totaled $19,542 a year.

He waded into the fight for the Republican nomination with a speech at his home town of Abilene, Kans.

Should Eisenhower win the presidency he would be the ninth general to occupy the White House and the second West Pointer. Gen. Ulysses Grant was the first West Point graduate to be president.

Comment on Nomination Refused by President

WASHINGTON, July 11 (AP)—President Truman sat at his television set today and watched Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower win the Republican nomination for President at the Chicago convention.

The President, however, had no comment on the Eisenhower victory, the White House said.

Presidential Secretary Joseph Short, after checking with the President on the Eisenhower nomination, told reporters: "No comment."

The President earlier this week expressed mock fear that Sen. Robert A Taft, whom he had called his "favorite" for the GOP nomination, would be beaten.

Renovated Museum In Pennsburg Open Tomorrow Afternoon

The newly renovated Schwenkfelder Museum on the second floor of the Carnegie Library building on the Perkiomen School campus, Pennsburg, will be open to the public tomorrow from 2 until 5 p. m., it was announced by Andrew S. Berky, director of the Schwenkfelder library. Berky is a son of Mrs. Mabel S. Berky, 15 Fairview street, Boyertown.

The library was also open the past Sunday, following extensive alterations which have provided for an abundance of space to display the museum's collection of Pennsylvania German household and farm implements.

Of special significance is an extensive array of Indian relics numbering several thousand according to Berky.

In conjunction with the reopening of the museum, an attractive display of Pennsylvania German illuminated writing (frakturschrifften) being featured in the new library building on Seminary street, Pennsburg. These writings, a survival of the Medieval art of illumination, are largely the work of local artists of the 18th and early 19th centuries.

Berky has invited the public to witness the museum tomorrow and see the interesting and rare displays.

Marriages, Divorces Took Drops in 1951

WASHINGTON, July 11 (P) — Pennsylvanians were neither as marrying nor as numerous in divorce courts in 1951 as they were in 1950, thereby going along with a national trend.

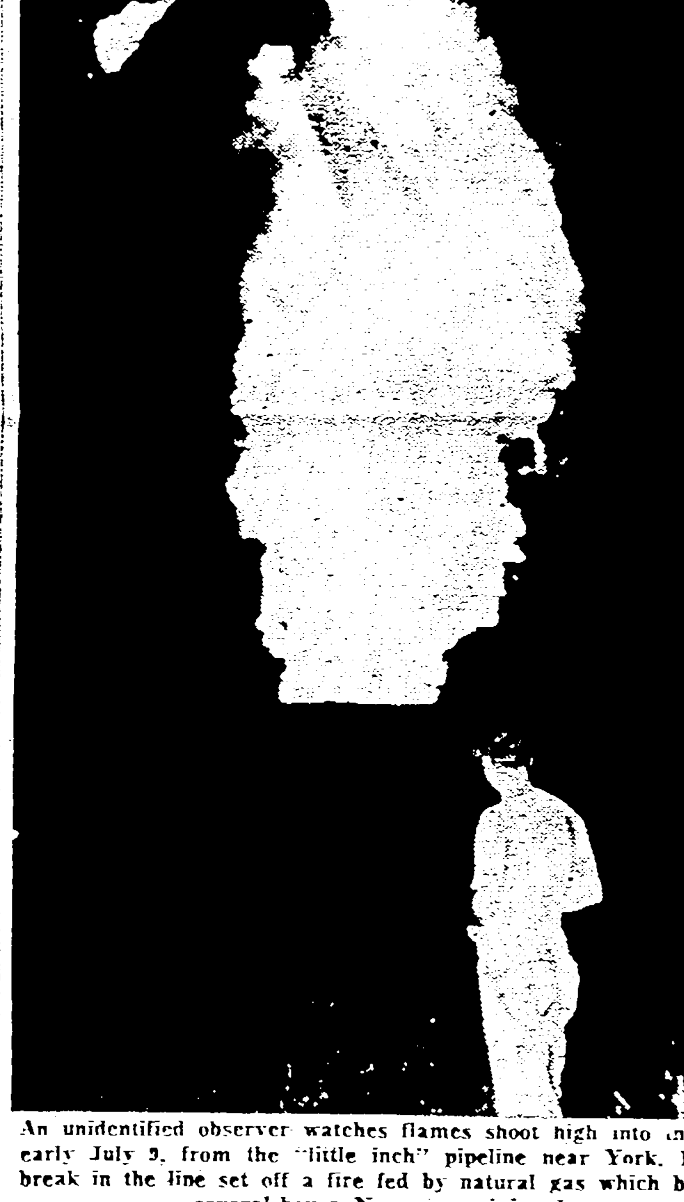

The Federal Security agency said today there were 84,936 marriages in Pennsylvania in 1951, 4733 fewer than the total for 1950. There were 10,688 divorces, compared with 12,140 in 1950.

Nationally, the agency said, the 1951 marriage rate dropped to its lowest point since 1938.

Vacationing With Mercury Readers

By THE VACATION EDITOR of The Mercury Staff

The political convention wasn't the only one going on in Chicago at the time the Simpletons were visiting the "Windy City."

Simon was a member in good standing of one of these other outfits holding its annual wind-ding in the mid-western metropolis, so he decided to drop in and get the "latest dope."

This was strictly a professional organization directly associated with the tavern trade and known throughout the land as the Brotherhood of Beerjoint Bouncers. Their excuse for holding yearly conventions was the introduction and discussion of newer and better methods of ejecting quarrelsome and inebriated customers.

Simon strolled into the hall during a business session just as a couple of the huskier brothers were demonstrating the latest judo holds for incapacitating the overcapacitated.

AFTER THE show was over, volunteers were asked to come up and tell about some of their own true-tested methods. Having bounced barflies for many years, Simon decided he would dazzle the audience with some of his own remedies.

"It works this way," announced Simon to he eager listeners. "you politely ask the customer to leave, and if the guy refuses—sell him more drinks till he falls flat on his face—then he's no trouble at all."

The applause showed Simon's suggestion met with great approval.

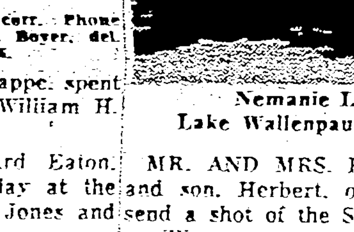

Daytona Beach, Fla., seems to be the place for any young man's vacation according to Melvin Rhoads and Thomas Specht, both of Boyertown, who say, "The gals down here are the real thing."

To back up their statement they send a couple of cards decorated by some of the best specimens of feminine pulchritude.

A COUPLE of cuties frolicking at Lake Wallenpaupack, Betty Queen and Margie Weidner, send their regards to all their friends and "wish they could be with us."

The Nemanie Lodge, at the lake impressively stares from the face of their card.

MR. AND MRS. H. G. Shivers and son, Herbert, of Royersford, send a shot of the South entrance pavillion to the Watkins Glen State park, N. Y.

This trio is getting around and say: "We are having an enjoyable vacation trip with a weekend spent in Wildwood, N. J., then a tour of New York State to Niagara Falls and home."

"WE ARE completing two weeks vacation in the West," says Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Springer of Sassamansville. "We toured the Badlands, Black Hills, Yellowstone Park, Salt Lake City, Rocky Mountain Park and Denver, Colo."

Evidently they like Yellowstone best because they give all a glimpse Dragon's Mouth spring, "way out yonder" at the park.

It seems that many people have the same idea for vacation spots, so here's taking care of two parties with one paragraph.

* * *

MR. AND MRS. John Emes and daughter, and Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Emes, are the first group. Shirey Bush and Laura Axsmith, make up the second group. They all say "Having a wonderful time," and both cards show Convention hall in Atlantic City, N. J.

YOU CAN just hear the strains of "By the Sea, by the Beautiful Sea," as you look at the card sent by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bucciaglia and daughter, Joanne, from Ocean City, Md.

They tell all: "This is a fisherman's paradise . . . having a wonderful time catching flounder . . . beach and water are swell."

FROM ASBURY PARK, N. J., comes a vacation message sent by Fred and Mary Jones, saying: "Having fun . . . weather fair . . . hello to all."

A variety of flowers around Convention hall at Bradley Park are colorfully pictured on their card.

THREE POTTSTOWN families get together and send a card from Lake Wallenpaupack.

Mr. and Mrs. John Sperow, Sr., 16 South Evans street; Mr. and Mrs. John Sperow, Jr., 359 Jefferson avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. Russell Reichman and son, David, 359 Jefferson avenue, all say they are "Having a wonderful time boating and fishing."

GREEN FOLIAGE, a river and mountains all go to compose a view of the junction the Potomac and Shenandoah rivers at Harper's Ferry, Md., shown on a card signed Mr. and Mrs. William Mackey and son, Wayne Monroe.

"Say hello to all the folks at home . . . having a nice trip," they say.

Kidnap Investigation Promised by Soviets

BERLIN, July 11 (P)—Soviet Gen. Vasily I. Chuikov promised U. S. High Commissioner John J. McCloy personally today to investigate a kidnaping that has enraged beleaguered West Berlin.

The chief of the Soviet Control commission said he hoped McCloy did not believe the Russians had anything to do with the kidnaping —the abduction Tuesday of Dr. Walter Linse, an anti-Communist lawyer.

McCloy called on Chuikov at the Russian's Karlshorst headquarters to say farewell. He leaves his post July 21 after three years as the top American representative in Germany.

Aides of McCloy said the commissioner told Chuikov he regretted straying from the normal courtesies of a farewell call, but made it clear the incident was so outrageous to him that he was forced to bring it up.

THE MANNER in which East German Communist police raised a border barrier and permitted the abduction car to enter the Soviet zone without challenge indicated full-scale collusion, McCloy told Chuikov.

The Russian general said he had been out of town a few days, but would start an inquiry immediately. His attitude obviously pleased the commissioner. It helped promote a friendly atmosphere at a reception here later for McCloy, at which Western Allies, Russians and Germans rubbed shoulders.

Mrs. Stoudt will as- sume the office of immediate past- templar. Others taking office were Frieda Schultz, vice-templar; Mrs. Lillian Oppelt, marshall of cere- monies; Mrs. Helen Bauer, guar- dian of inner portal; Esther Albitz, guardian of outer portal; Mrs. Merle Heil, prophetess; Mrs. Elsie Trew, priestess; Mrs. Eva Long, music; and Mrs. Dorothy Haas, records. Geraldine Stahl was named as guardian of finance suc- ceeding Mrs. Sadie Heimbach, who was recently elected as Grand Templar of the State of Penn- sylvania. The local temple will mark their 37th anniversary with a dinner meeting on Monday, July 21.

Larry Dale Buck, son of Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow W. Buck, Pennsburg RD was baptised at the home of Dr. C. M. DeLong, pastor of New Goshenhoppen Reformed church. Sponsors for the christening were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bunnell, Red Hill, uncle and aunt of the infant boy. Mrs. Buck was the former Lillian M. Souder.

The 39th annual Gerhart family reunion will be held in New Goshen- hoppen park on Saturday, July 19. Activities will open with a base- ball game at 10 a. m. followed by games and a business session in the afternoon and an evening pro- gram starting at 7 o'clock with music by the Woodland String band, Philadelphia.

Cadet Richard Ziegler, of the U. S. Military academy, West Point, N. Y., arrived at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rob- ert M. Ziegler, Jefferson street, for his Summer recess period. He will report back to the academy on July 28. Richard, a 1950 grad- uate of East Greenville High school, where he won 12 varsity letters, four each in football, base- ball and basketball, entered the military school on July 5, 1950. He was a member of the varsity foot- ball squad at West Point last Fall.

A total of forty-one new mem- bers were reported for the current membership drive at the last week's meeting of the Rod and Gun protective association of East Greenville. The charter of the club is now open and new mem- bers will be admitted on Sunday, July 20, when the first annual picnic of the club will be staged on the club grounds adjacent to the clubhouse on Adam's road, near town. Members and their families or lady friends will be admitted to the picnic at one dollar per person. Children under twelve may come free. Reservations for the affair must be made by Satur- day with Henry J. Lachman, chair- man of the picnic committee.

Among the worshippers in New Goshenhoppen Reformed church recently were Mr. and Mrs. Ral- ston Derr and children, Homer and Peggie, Stockton, Calif., and Staff Sgt. and Mrs. Donald S. Hoffman, Tampa, Fla. The Derr's, former residents of the community, are visiting relatives here. Mr. Derr is manager of the Chamber of Commerce in Stockton. The Hoff- man's are spending a fifteen day period with Mrs. Hoffman's par- ents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Graber. Sgt. Hoffman is stationed at the McDill Air Base, near Tampa.

Controlling Leaf Spot Necessary to Grow Healthy Tomatoes

Tomatoes are as popular with certain insects and diseases as they are with home gardeners.

A common ailment affecting to- matoes is leaf spot. It is caused by a fungus and can be recognized by brown spots on the foliage as shown in the accompanying gar- den-graph.

Lower leaves are affected first and as the disease pro- gresses up the plant, the leaves curl, become dry and then fall.

Unless leaf spot is controlled the tomatoes on ailing plants will be few and inferior in size to the normal sized fruit on healthy plants.

Control calls for spraying the plants with Sordeaux mixture at 10-day intervals from the time the plants start growth until the first fruits are about half-grown.

STILL ANOTHER enemy of to- mato plants is the variegated cut- worm, illustrated. The worm ap- pears as a fleshy caterpillar. It cuts off the tomato plants at the surface of the ground after they have been set out as seedlings. One species of this worm also bores into the green tomato fruit.

Best protection against cut- worms is to have your tomato plants wear collars. Wrap four- inch collars of heavy paper around seedlings at transplanting time. See that the collars extend an inch or two down into the ground.

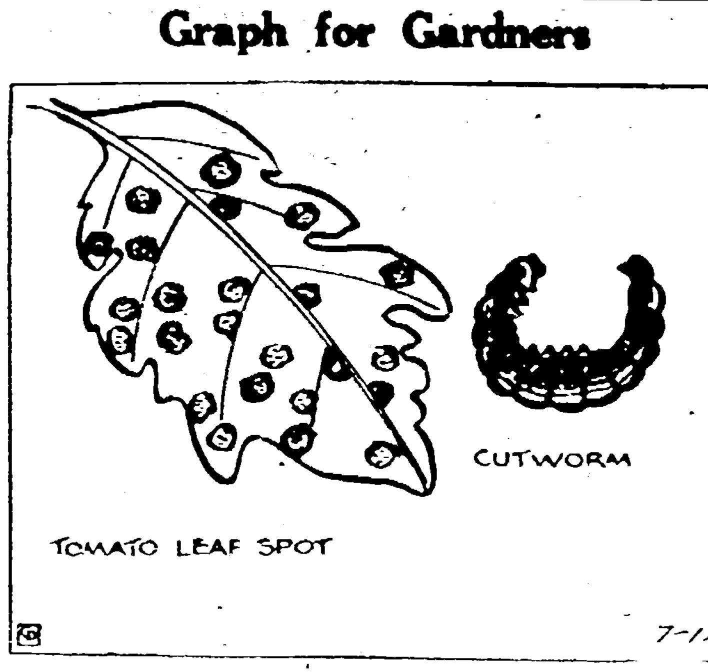

Cutworms can also be trap- ped under boards or shingles. When these are placed on edge, at an angle, they will provide shade which lures the worms to seek cover under them. They can then be killed.

Coal ashes placed around to- mato plants will also furnish some control for the worms do not like to crawl across the ashes to reach the plants.

PLENTY OF VEGETABLES

July heat brings a rising tide of fresh vegetables and fruits to the northeastern section of the country, and the Department of Agriculture lists Summer vege- tables on its plentiful foods report for this part of United States.

Single Barberry Bush Costs York County Big Crop Damage From Black Stem Rust

HARRISBURG, July 11 (AP)—The State Agriculture department said recently a single barberry bush has cost York county farmers thou- sans of dollars in black stem rust damage to wheat crops.

The department said the offend- ing bush released millions of spores to infect wheat fields as much as 12 miles away on the edge of the city of York. Some 50 square miles are affected, said the department's chief of the Bureau of Plant In- dustry, Dr. Thomas L. Guyton.

The barberry bush, approxi- mately six feet high, was lo- cated on a farm about three miles north of East Berlin and seven miles east of York Springs.

Twenty acres of wheat on that farm and on the adjoining farm are almost a total loss and more than 1000 acres in the area have been damaged to the extent of at least 10 percent. Dr. Guyton de- clared. Blackened wheat stems and shriveled kernels show pres- ence of the disease, he explained.

SEVERAL YEARS ago a bar- berry eradication campaign was conducted in York county, and the one bush that apparently was over- looked is now surrounded by a number of smaller plants.

The 1951 Legislature provided an appropriation of $30,000 for barberry eradication.

2nd Highest Crop Output In History Expected in 1952

WASHINGTON, July 11 (AP)—Crop production second only to banner 1948 is in prospect this year.

A corn crop exceeded only once (1948) and a wheat crop topped only twice (1947 and 1948) was fore- cast yesterday in the Department of Agriculture report based on conditions July 1.

All-crop production is indi- cated at 132 percent of the 1923-32 average. In computing this index allowances are made for several crops not yet esti- mated, such as cotton and soy- beans, at the average yield on the estimated acreage.

Such a volume would be the largest reached in any year except 1948 when the index was 134 per- cent.

The acreage crops to be har- vested is only slightly above aver- age but yields of several of the major crops will be high. Rice, however, appears to be the only crop likely to set a production record this year.

IN ITS FIRST estimate of the 1952 corn crop, the department forecast production of 3,365,089,000 bushels. This compares with 2,- 941,423,000 bushels last year and a 10-year average (1941-50) of 3,- 011,652 bushels.

But the whopping corn estimate fell a little short of the Govern- ment's 3,375,000,000-bushel goal.

A wheat crop of 1,249,919,000 is indicated. This is a little off from the June 1 estimate but way ahead of the 10-year average of 799,977,- 000 bushels.

Wheat Growers Told Price Support Plan Includes 1952 Crop

Wheat growers are reminded by Alvin K. Rothenberger, chairman of the Montgomery county Produc- tion and Marketing Administra- tion committee that the U. S. De- partment of Agriculture's grain price support program is in oper- ation for the 1952 wheat crop.

Wheat growers this year are marketing one of their biggest crops, and, according to Rothen- berger, "The way they market their wheat will have a lot to do with the prices they receive.

"If they do not overload the market at harvest time, the seasonal price drop won't be so great. By spreading their mar- keting over a longer period, in line with market requirements, they'll help stabilize prices and assure themselves better re- turn."

To help wheat growers market in an orderly way, he points out, Commodity Credit corporation price-support loans and purchase agreements are available.

Because of this program, the chairman explains, no producer need sell his wheat for less than the price-support level. By using the price support program, he can be sure of the support price as a minimum and, by controlling his marketing he can take advantage of any price increase during the marketing year.

UNDER THE LOAN program, a grower can borrow 90 percent of parity on his grain and at the same time retain ownership for later marketing. If at maturity of the loan the market is less than the loan, he can deliver his wheat to CCC in settlement of the loan. No matter what happens to the mar- ket, the loan assures the grower of at least 90 percent of parity for his wheat.

CCC Purchase Agreements also are available to wheat growers. A purchase agree- ment, the chairman explains, is a contract between CCC and the producer under which CCC agrees to buy a specified quan- tity of grain next Spring at the support price provided the grain is of "loan" quality. The grower can sell in the mean- time, but he is at least assured of the suport price.

Full details on how to apply for a grain price support loan or pur- chase agreement are available at the Montgomery county PMA Of- fice, located in the Public school building, Collegeville.

Extension Service Establishes 2 Wheat Demonstration Plots

In order to provide more information about adapted varieties, the Extension service has established two wheat variety demonstration plots on farms operated by Herbert E. Crossan, Landenberg and A. Brinton Reynolds, Unionville.

Varieties seeded at these farms are Thorne, Seneca, and a new variety developed at Pennsylvania State college known as Pennoll. Yield records and other studies will be made at these farms.

According to the 1950 Pennsylvania Crop and Livestock report, Chester county farmers grew 22,050 acres of wheat yielding 540,220 bushels, and value at $1,037,220.

Since wheat harvest is just around the corner, County Agent Robert A. Powers calls attention to an Extension leaflet which discusses a simple moisture test as an aid to determine the proper time to combine wheat. Leaflet 128, Protect Quality of wheat by Proper Harvesting and Storing, discusses many phases of the wheat harvesting program.

Learn Plant Identification This Summer As Necessity to Avoid Catching Poison Ivy

All those with an itch for the great outdoors — vacationers, picnickers, hikers and campers—may get exactly that unless they know their poisonous plants. This, in effect, is the warning of the tree experts, who urge plant identification as a necessity rather than a hobby this Summer.

Pictures of poison ivy, poison sumac and poison oak, the prime offenders, have been published in newspapers and magazines a thousand times. Yet each Summer, the not-so-exclusive memberships in the Poison Ivy league spread considerably.

The best remedy is to avoid contact with objectionable plants. To avoid them, you have to know them. If you have no access to library pictures of the plants, consult your favorite Boy Scout.

State and highway departments have been making valiant efforts to curb these plant pests. However, present control methods, including the new herbicide weed eradicators, have by no means eliminated the sources of trouble. The experts point out contamination is possible at any season and from any part of the plant.

Even smoke and fumes from burning plants will poison some people. The irritant itself is an oily substance exuded by all parts of the plant; it poisons on contact and will penetrate light clothing. When the plant is burned, the oil infiltrates the smoke. Breathing in the smoke therefore can create contact.

THERE ARE many remedies peddled to rid sufferers of their rashes and most of them will give some comfort. If you have been exposed your best bet is to immediately wash with a strong soap.

Ram Show Winners Sell for Large Sums

HARRISBURG, July 11 (AP) — College bred sheep brought top prices at the fourth annual Keystone Stud Ram sale this week at the Pennsylvania Farm Show building.

A Hampshire yearling ram raised by the School of Agriculture at the Pennsylvania State college returned $560 as the grand champion of the show.

However, the third place Hampshire yearling ram also from the college knocked down the sale's top price of $610. Spirited bidding sent the price for the third place ram higher than the champion.

The champion was bought by Carl O. Hoffman, Chestertown, Md. The third place animal joins the flock of W. P. Campbell, Centre Hall, Centre county.

The 173 head of yearling and lamb ewes and rams brought a total of $21,035, an average of $121 per head.

Keep tomato plants well watered. The plants will repay this attention by multiplying the yield of fruits.

UAW T

BILL HARNE WORKERS T

UAW and it's second baseman, in the standings of the City-Indu thwarted the upset-bent Merchant Hallman's three-hitter.

The Autoworkers drew into a t winning over the eight-times beaten infielder who has all but two of his single, double and triple off loser De league-leading .500.

Harner's average, on nine hits in 18 trips, surpassed Flaggs' Lou Millard, the previous leader.

As it was, the Autoworkers came awfully close to getting sent down for the count, and could thank some faulty baserunning for their edgy victory.

Trailing 3-0 in the third as UAW scored once in each of the opening three frames, the Merchants tallied twice in their half and stood an excellent chance to tie it up had it not been for a little too much hesitancy.

And in this case, he who hesitated really lost.

Bob Trainer walked to open the inning, stole second and went to third as Josh Sova, the MOPS' new first sacker who played with JHS the past year, dropped his first hit of the CIL semester into short right. Sova took second on the throw to the plate.

Leon Rogosky grounded to second and both runners held on, but

Hal Bauer bunted toward first and the roller was fielded by pitcher Hallman, who tossed to Bob Stauffer at the plate.

Stauffer blocked the dish neatly but when Trainer came roaring in, he dropped the pill.

Bob Swavely then punched back to Hallman for the second out, but Stan Wayock, playing third, made a low heave to first on Boughter's grounder, admitting Sova and placing Bauer on third.

While Barry Kessler was batting, Boughter set out for second and stopped halfway when Stauffer unexpectedly made a play on him. Bauer waited too long seeing if he could make it home before he started and Boughter was caught in a rundown before the MOPS' rightfielder could cross the plate with the run that would have tied things up there.

Auto Refinishing's torried softballers jumped into a tie for fourth place and sucked Schwabs below the Redbirds into third last night downing the Oilers, 12-6, at Franklin field annex.

The Refinishers, defending titlists the past two years, thereby set themselves up as definite threats to move higher in the standings by bouncing down the heretofore second spot Oilers.

PAR rapped out 10 hits good for it's dozen runs off Bill Hinnershitz, who went the route ,or rout) for Schwabs.

Don Scherer, who hurled a seven-hitter to hang up the mound win, also rapped a brace of singles as did Lou Mack and Bob Scherer to pace the victors.

Jack Ziegler's two one-baggers was the top move for any Oiler stickman.

Joe Kellar's triple in the second was the big blow of the six-run frame that broke up an 0-0 tie after one. Schwabs came back to garner half as many tallies in their half, but PAR got two in the fourth and then countered with four more in the seventh, while Schwabs could muster only a single count in the fifth and two in the sixth.

Hinnershitz collected a triple for the losers as the spark of their three-run frame.

His mates folded for six errors behind him, however, with Bob Freese and Smoky Rickert committing five of them between them.

Cards Play Two Sunday

The Pottstown Cardinalettes pick up the teampo of play tomorrow in a day-night twin bill that features the local nine, the Wilmington Red Birds and the Lancaster Eagles at Pottstown's Boden field.

This afternoon's game was cancelled, it was announced last night by the Cards' management, but tomorrow's double header promises to wake up this afternoon's activity, as both Sunday foes are among the toughest in the area.

Tena Stewart and Ruth Leinbach will hurl for the local girls, although it hasn't been decided as yet who will oppose whom. Wilmington is here for the 2 p. m. tiff, with the Eagles flying in for the 6 p. m. engagement.

Dodgers Cop Fourth With 6-5 Decision

Perkiomen Dodgers edged Schwenksville Legion 6-5 to win their fourth straight game in the second half race in the Perkiomen Valley Knee-Hi baseball league. Meanwhile, the Yankees shutout the Indians 8-0. to win their third game in four starts. Both the latter clubs are also Perkiomen Post entries. The Dodgers-Indians game postponed on Tuesday due to rain, has been re-scheduled for Thursday, July 17, on the Perkiomen School field.

New Coach

PITTSBURGH, July 11 (AP)—Wilkinsburg High school named S. Ray Grimm Jr. as head football and assistant basketball coach today.

Juniors Visit PerkiomenNine; Kriczky On Hill

Pottstown's Legion Juniors, who made the mistake once of looking too far in advance and lost to Narberth, will have their minds solely on today's tiff with lowly Perkiomen, when they tangle with the two-time winners at the East Greenville park at 3 p.m.

Even so, it's pretty hard to keep from thinking of Wednesday's forthcoming tilt with unbeaten Souderton. For the Rhoadsmen must win if they are to retain any last hope of staying in the county flag chase.

Even should the Amoles take the pace-setters, another team must knock them off as well before the locals get a crack at a playoff, as Pottstown trails by two games.

This afternoon, it'll be Mike Kriczky, chosen Thursday to hurl the August 6 Legion All-Star test in Shibe Park, who'll be out after the Perks.

Mike one-hitted, 3-0, them, in the season's inaugural at Franklin field well over a month ago, but nobody thinks it's been too long for him to forget how he did it.

Mike could have easily had a no-hitter in that opening clash, save but for a wierd ruling on a roller down the third base line by Perk's Bob Hayes.

In that first meeting, the Pottstown bats hadn't yet started to erupt with any regularity as they've shown themselves capable in later tilts.

Perkiomen southpaw Bob Myers didn't throw himself a bad game, and had he been facing any other team without the benefit of the stellar chucking the Amoles boast he could have had himself a win.

The Pottstown infield will be the same around Kriczky, with Gib Nore, Carl Horner, Lee Hallman and Bob Quinn from first around to third, and Dave Ricketts catching.

But that outfield! ! — Nobody's quite sure yet who'll be in there. Stowe's Dick Geisler, a righthanded sticker, seems the only sure bet, and he'll probably open in right field. Outside of that it's wide open.

Our guess here is Red Kerr and Fred Harvey, both righthanders like Geisler.

Merrill Shirey and Howie Bedell could sneak in, but it's doubtful.

Should Meyers, a southpaw, throw, Shirey is definitely out, as he bears an affinity for fanning versus unorthodox servers. Bedell, who walloped a homer in his last game, might not seem fully ready to take over his starting berth if there's a lefthander in the house.

Merrill Renninger, also a righthanded swatter, is still another possibility for one of the outfield berths, and possibly could get the nod over Kerr in left.

The bus will leave the Legion home at 1 p. m.

Lions Bounce Jefferson With 17-16 Victory

Three runs in the fifth titled the tide in favor of the Lincoln Lions, Thursday, as they out bashed Jefferson, 17-16, on the Jeffs' playground, in softball.

Stan Swede socked five hits in as many appearances to pace the Lions, as they chipped in with 21 hits in support of pitcher Leon Kulp.

Mel Krause led the losers with four hits. Al Burndt was the losing hurler.

Upper Perk Playoff Sunday

The East Greenville Cubs and Green Lane will meet in a one game playoff for the first half championship of the Upper Perkiomen Valley twilight circuit tomorrow evening, at 6 p. m., on the Red Hill field.

Both teams finished the first round with 8-4 logs. Jerry Guldin, a southpaw chucker recently returned from a minor league farm assignment in Thomasville, Ga., will likely get the nod from Cub manager Bob Ewenk.

Claude Balduzzi or Dale Hallman are possible choices for the Laners under Earl Kulp.

Souderton Just Gets By 'Fords; Wins 4-3

Montco league-leading Souderton Legion had its hands full with Roversford's scrappy team last night until the seventh inning when the 'Fords threw away their chance for the upset of the year in the county league, losing out, 4-3, at Souderton.

Royersford had no intention of going down to its sixth defeat of the year in 11 starts from the start. They fought back from an early deficit to take a 3-2 lead after three.

They held it until the sixth when Souderton tied it up with a single tally, and went on to cop the nod with another single one in the seventh.

Ferril Alderfer, the medium-slow southpaw who no-hitted Pottstown a while back, was the winning pitcher on a six-hitter, and he started the deciding rally himself

He singled to open the frame and stole second, took third as Murray Alderfer flied out, and when Walt Way rapped back to pitcher Frank Walters, held at third.

However, Walters threw the ball and the game away on his throw to first, heaving wildly past Jake Troutwine, enabling Alderfer to count the winning run.

Royersford scored its first run in the second after Souderton had taken a 2-0 lead in the first.

Dave Templeton led off the 'Ford frame with a triple to rightcenter, and scored on Bill Yeagle's fly ball.

Ray Slawecki's double headed the third. He came in on Templeton's fly ball, but in the fifth, those fellows weren't so adept.

Gerry Keyser's triple to leftcenter with no outs presented a golden scoring chance in that inning, but Slawecki and Yeagle fanned while Templeton meekly grounded out to snuff the scoring chance.

Souderton now stands at 11-0 in the won-lost register.

The loss for Walters was his second and evened his log at two and two.

Phils Meet Hampdon Fire Co. in Reading

The Phillies softball team will journey to Reading's Lebanon Pike Playground diamond tomorrow afternoon for a 1.30 p. m. tiff with the Reading softball circuit leading Hampdon Fire company. All players are requested to meet at the local fire house at 12 p. m. for transportation.

Two weeks ago, the Phils lost out an extra inning tiff to the Hampdons after leading for the most part of the game, and they'll be seeking revenge for that defeat tomorrow in going after their 17th win in 20 games.

Little Elks Drill

The Elks Knee-Hi's will practice this afternoon at the Far fields at 2 p. m. All players are requested to attend the drill which will be in preparation for the rescheduled league game against the Optimists, Monday.

Stowe Plays

The Stowe AA team will go behind bars tomorrow afternoon when they take Graterford prison's team at the prison. All Stowe players are requested to meet at Nick Colasanti's home at 11 a. m. Sunday morning for the trip down.

Cubs Keep Ahead Of Grater Team

Ringing Hill kept its two game lead over Graterford in the Pottstown Suburban league last night by murdering fourth-place Gilbertsville, 13-3, at Ringing Hill, while the 'Fords were topping Royersford, 6-4, at Graterford.

The evening's other circuit tilt saw Doug Schaeffer win in relief over Linfield, 10-9, for Sanatoga in a battle for those with 10 or more losses.

Ringing Hill just overwhelmed the Gilberts in surprisingly routing Norm Sundstrom. Gilbertsville notched nine hits as compared to 14 for the Cubs, but their hits were nowhere near so opportune.

The Cub barrage was primarily one of singles as only two doubles went beyond the one-base distance.

Jack Raysor and Tony Lucarelli each smote a double and single in making unbeaten Nels Weidenbaugh, the Cubs' 5-0 lefthander, the winning pitcher again.

Weidenbaugh, Lou Tesznar, Frank Babel and Ken Schaeffer all connected for two singles each off losing hurler Sundstrom who went down to his first defeat after winning one.

Sundstrom himself and Richie Nester paced the losers. Norm nabbed three singles, while Nester got a two-bagger and a single in four trips.

Ringing Hill scored in every inning, getting five in the fourth to take a 10-0 lead that really set up the Gilberts' position as futile.

TWO RUNS in the bottom of the sixth put down the fast-improving Royersford club at Graterford, and gave Roy Gaugler his third mound decision against one loss.

The winning rally came as Ernie Gaugler singled and took second on an error on the second baseman on Charley King's bunt. Wils Kulp blasted into a double play, putting Gaugler on third, and Walt Maute singled him in.

The Grater centerfielder pilfered second and came in with an insurance tally when Jack Gregor singled.

Royersford had battled back from a 4-1 deficit with a three-run rally in the top of the sixth on Jim Edleman's single, a fielder's choice on Bob Faust's roller that retired no one, two errors on first baseman Dave Meyers and Walt Miller's two -runsingle.

Kulp's first inning double brought across two of the three runs scored in that frame as the Graters got off to a fast start.

Gregor, Kulp and Ernie Gaugler each rapped a pair of hits for the victors, while Royersford had its seven hits scattered evenly by the Graterford righthander.

The loss was Herb Carl's first after one previous success.

LITTLE BILL Draushak slammed four hits and Schaeffer hurled three-hit relief ball in three innings as Sanatoga took its fifth victory of the year to move into fifth place past Linfield.

Sanatoga battled hard for the victory overcoming a 9-6 deficit with a four-run splurge in the sixth.

The winning runs crossed as Schaeffer walked. Carl Miller singled and Ronny Gincely walked to load 'em up. Dick Gaugler singled, scoring two, and after Os Porter singled. Draushak singled, scoring two more, including Gaugler with the 10th run.

Linfield had trailed, 6-4, going into the fifth but pushed five runs across to take a 9-6 lead. Successive singles by Ray Bauer, Jim Fedyk and Ray Vanderslice and consecutive doubles by Bob Quinn, Fred Cook and Jim Loudis turned the trick.

Starter Bill Fedyk, who pitched to six men in the fifth after twirling five frames, took his seventh loss of the campaign against one win.

Fred Cook conked three hits off Schaeffer and starter Ronny Gincely to pace the losers.

USWA Practice Game

USWA 2326's Junior team has a practice game this afternoon at the Far Fields, at 2:30 p. m., it was announced last night. All players are urged to be there.

Stock Cars Roll Sun.

It'll be a hungry crew of stock car drivers chasing that fat purse around Sanatoga's fifth-of-a-mile track tomorrow evening, as the local macadam oval swings back into action after a rain-forced layoff of over a week.

There hasn't been any racing at all at George Marshman's favorite roadway since Jimmy Ryan copped last Friday's Midseason championship

The past Wednesday evening's baseball benefit card was rained out and will go on instead this Wednesday, July 16.

The weekend show usually attracts banner crowds to the Sanatoga stockyards, so there should be one interesting pot of loot at the end of that 25-lap rainbow for the winner of same.

Besides Ryan, there'll be Reading's Red Lesher, who won his second Sanatoga feature the Sunday before Ryan did, in there to liven things up.

And it's beginning to look as if a first-class feud might be in the making between the two. So don't be surprised if the sparks fly tomorrow night.

Ryan, who became "The Man Without a Car" just at the right time for his sake, snapped out of his bad slump imposed after his first feature win in time to take the Fourth of July 50 lap grind.

Lesher, the fiery redhead who is right in there among the club's leaders in points, will more than likely have his hands full with Ryan now that he seems to have the right combination in his new car. No 510

Then, of course, there'll be many others of the Pottstown Stock Car Racing association chasing the fattened-up bacon tomorrow evening.

Monk Kellar, Mike Knappenberger, Jim Jacketti, Dick Deering, Dick Rodenberger, Harvey McDonald, Charley Kelly, Smokey Dengler, Jack Raby, and Red Boyer are all still hot on the chase of that second feature win, and they're more or less desperate to cop it before Ryan or Lesher completes a "triple."

The program tomorrow will include nine events, including the ever-thrilling destruction derby.

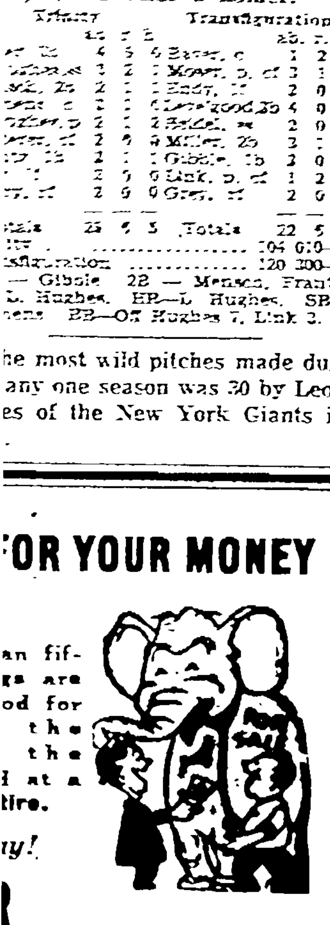

Four preliminary heats, two semifinals, a consolation and the 25-lap feature promise to hold in store to satisfy even the most thrill-lusty fan.

Brooks, Brav[...] Phils, Bucs [...]

—DODGERS—

CHICAGO, July 11 (AP) — The Brooklyn Dodgers, with a helping hand from the Chicago Cubs, who kicked in with five errors, stretched their league lead to 5½ games today by squeezing out a 6-5 victory over the scatter-armed Chicagoans.

The Dodgers gathered only seven hits off three Chicago hurlers. But, as it turned out, the Brooks didn't need much batting this cloudy afternoon. For the Cubus made four wild tosses and booted one ground ball.

A three-run rally in the eighth by the Chicagoans fell short, and Clem Labine picked up his seventh victory, although he was knocked out of the box in this inning. Carl Erskine finished up, but had trouble retiring the side in the ninth, when the Cubs put runners on first and second with one out.

Erskine settled down, however, to get Eddie Miksis on a fly ball and Bob Addis on strikes.

Spahn Beats Cincinnati On Seven Hits, 6-1

CINCINNATI, July 11 (AP) —The Boston Braves backed Warren Spahn's good pitching with 16 hits and good base running today to defeat the Cincinnati Reds, 6 to 1. The southpaw allowed seven hits.

Johnny Logan drove in a couple of runs as he hit safely behind the speedy Sam Jethroe in the first and second innings. He had three hits for the day, as did Earl Torgeson. One of Torgeson's hits was for the distance.

It was Spahn's eighth victory against nine losses. Herman Wehmeier lost his seventh game. He has won four.

Only 1,771 paid to see the game.
